BOMBER FALLS IN LONDON, EXPLODES

LONDON, Sept. 19—Several buildings were demolished and it was feared many persons were entombed last night when a German bombing plane crashed in southeastern London with a full load of bombs with terrific force. It was disclosed the plane crashed in the Bermondsey section of London east of London bridge. Bermondsey is the quarter of tanners and saddlers. Among the buildings destroyed were a police station and labor institute. Civilian casualties were feared heavy. (See Map on Page 2.)

London School's End--

There's no joy in the hearts of these London youngsters as they survey the ruins where once stood their school . . . for as young as they are, they realize they may have been killed when Nazi bombs destroyed the structure. When a school is hit in the British capital, it's bad news, as most of them are used as air raid shelters. One such school was hit by a huge Nazi bomb while 500 persons were taking shelter and more than 100 were killed.

TNT BOMBS PLAY HAVOC IN LONDON

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Several casualties and some damage were caused this morning when a German raider, beginning a daylight attack in the wake of a heavy night assault, dropped three or four bombs on an East London district.

The raider opened a new day—the thirteenth—of the Nazi air offensive against London, already rated the most bombed city in history, as the city's millions sought to resume their tasks and to put right as far as possible damage done in an all-night raid described by reporters as the fiercest yet.

During the night-long assault on the capital, Nazi planes, striking singly and in waves, loosed tremendous loads of TNT and a new type of explosive fire bomb, causing heavy damage and mounting casualty lists.

German bombers this morning flew to the renewed assault over England's east and southeast coasts and the Air Ministry reported three planes shot down, one over East Anglia, northeast of London, and two off the southeast coast.

AMID SCENES OF RUIN

Londoners traveled to work today on buses which crawled through damaged streets and along devious detours, and surveyed the battered facades of business buildings newly damaged in last night's dusk-to-dawn raid, which reached a new peak of intensity.

A portion of the press raised new demands for deep bombproof shelters to provide dry, warm and sanitary protection for the long winter months ahead, and suggested removal of the aged and infirm from the huge city and its widening areas of devastation.

Moderate gales whipped up whitecaps on the English channel and there were indications of rain before nightfall, bad omens for any invader attempting to cross from the French or Belgian coasts.

Tremendous loads of explosives were dumped by the Germans last night, principally in south London, but also in central London, and in practically every other part of England as well—Lancashire, Hertfordshire, Berkshire, Essex, Sussex, Kent, the Midlands, northeast and southwest.

UNDER TERRIFIC BLASTS

One Merseyside district reported an extremely savage bombing which lasted several hours. More than 100 bombs were dropped.

New devastation and damage in central London included the Peter Robinson Department Store at Oxford Circus, the London County Hall, just across Westminster

British Fleet Opens Terrific Shelling Of Italian Forces

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 19 (AP)—The British Mediterranean fleet has moved into action against the Italian forces driving along the coast into Egypt with a bombardment of the Italian's newly-won positions at Sidi Barrani, 60 miles inside Egypt, it was announced officially today.

New entrenchments at Sidi Barrani and heavy artillery moving along the coast by trucks were the chief targets, said Egypt's premier, Hassan Sabry Pasha.

His announcement came at the end of a cabinet meeting which lasted through the night, at which Egypt's role in the British-Italian war was debated. Egypt still is non-belligerent, despite the Italian invasion of her territory.

British land forces continued to harass the steady Italian advance into Egypt, but still refrained from major action.

WATER STILL PROBLEM

The transport of supplies, especially water, over a narrow strip of desert flanked on one side by the sea and on the other by a great escarpment, or plateau, of treacherous shifting sand which comes within a few miles of the sea in places, remains a serious Italian problem, rendered more difficult by British harassing operations.

The British said Italian inroads were not such as to place Egypt in jeopardy, and added that no additional Italian troops had crossed the Libyan-Egyptian frontier in 36 hours.

The Italian troops were busy trying to roll cannon into place when bombs began to plunge down on them, the British said, and although Fascist planes rose to protect the ground forces, they were described as "ineffective."

RADIO STATION HIT

The aerial counter-offensive extended all the way to the Libyan border, officials asserted, and fires—some of them said to be visible for 70 miles—were started. At least 10 fires, the British said, were started in attacks on Italian transports at Buqbuq.

At Begazi, Libya, about 350 miles west of Sidi Barrani, the English claimed to have destroyed Italy's biggest military airdrome in North Africa.

BRITONS FED UP ON HORROR; PLAN NEW RUIN FOR BERLIN

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 19—London is dangerously angry. The danger is for Nazi Germany.

This most sentimental and most human of all people of Europe are getting mightily fed up with the German "schreklichkeit" (war horror) and as I walked among them today through fresh ruins wrought by the Luftwaffe time and again I could hear exclamations demanding reprisals in kind.

Hitler has only a few more days of comparative safety before the equinoctical storms will release the Royal Air Force from the duty of concentrating its chief attention upon invasion ports.

Once Britain's now enormous bomber force is freed for slugging Berlin, it is the prediction of most observers here that the German capital is going to get a bruising such as it never had in its comparatively short and peaceful life.

Then is coming the test of nerves to see who breaks first—British or German.

When was the last time that British nerve broke? This is London's suggestion for an "information please" program.

My observation of tens of thousands of Londoners this morning as they went to their places of business to see for the first time their own property smashed was that they are losing some of that remarkable gayety which was so surprising in the first raids and are now becoming graver and grimmer.

They are realizing now, for the first time perhaps, that this sort of thing can conceivably go on for months or even years. It is also daily more impressive to traverse the streets of this ancient city and observe you are scarcely ever out of some wound, slight or ugly.

Again today there was astonishing testimony to the speed with which two great department stores in Oxford st.—Peter Robinson and Bourne & Hollingsworth—were relatively tidied up after bombs tore off their block-long fronts. Hundreds of tons of glass are swept up from London's streets even before early risers appear.

Time bombs cause the most dislocation and the least loss of life. There must have been scores of new ones scattered last night. Each is roped off for a distance of two or three blocks, temporarily delaying traffice until incredibly heroic bomb removal squads of the Royal Engineers take them away.

I saw some of these men working this morning digging out a 1000-pounder which might explode at any second. They seemed to answer the question about British nerve.

Variell Death Held Suicide to Symphony

Montford Schley Variell, 25, Harvard graduate and musician, died a suicide in a lethal chamber prepared by himself, it was revealed today when Medical Examiner David C. Dow filed the death certificate at Cambridge City Hall.

The death certificate stated the talented musician, member of a wealthy family, had died from illuminating gas poisoning in his small Cambridge apartment.

Authorities, in reconstructing the happenings of the fateful night, theorize that Variell prepared to die in the kitchen of the apartment, first carefully arranging a floor pallet with mattress and bedclothing on the floor.

REPORT HIM WEDDED

Then he is believed to have turned on the gas stove, waited until the kitchen was filled with fumes, slipped into the kitchen, turned off the jets and lain down to die.

At the same time rumors persisted today in New York that Variell had been secretly married for several months to Helen Lambert of New York City, the pretty girl whom Cambridge authorities have asked to come here to clear up further details in his life.

COMING BY PLANE

Miss Lambert, who promised to come to Boston, was expected to arrived here by plane today. Strength to the secret marriage reports was given, according to authorities, in the report that one policy in the $81,000 worth of insurance that Variell carried named the girl as beneficiary.

Indications were given authorities that Variell might have listened to a "death symphony" played on his $280 radio phonograph just before he died.

This theory was advanced by two friends, Dr. Theodore Sprague, sociology assistant at Harvard, and Claude T. Richards, a fifth year student at Harvard.

MARRIAGE ON COAST—Bay State's Bettina Hall of musical comedy fame leaves First Congregational Church, San Francisco, with her new husband, Raymond Rubican, advertising executive. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Hall of North Easton.

U. S. SETS DRAFT MACHINE MOVING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Distribution of draft registration forms for printing began today, with master copies of the first four blanks speeding by airmail to the 48 States where they will be reproduced by the millions.

The forms en route were the first of the series of 64 cards, questionnaires, placards, booklets and the like which will be needed in the huge task of enrolling 16,500,000 men next month and selecting some of them for military service.

The ultimate cost of all draft printing is estimated at $1,500,000.

Preparing in advance for the operation of the draft organization which the President is expected to call into official being today, Army and Navy selective service officials estimated that 32,000,000 registration cards, 24,000,000 registration certificates and 24,000,000 questionnaires would be required.

Draft questionnaire, with instructions, on Page 16.

Mrs. Roosevelt's draft story on Page 8.

Draft statistics and how law affects film folk on Page 9.

Illinois named 284 three-man draft boards subject to official appointment by Mr. Roosevelt. While its action was the first to be reported to Washington headquarters, other states were believed pursuing similar courses.

A House appropriations subcommittee, meanwhile, called Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, to testify at a closed hearing today on President Roosevelt's request on funds for the draft.

Mr. Roosevelt asked an additional $1,733,886,976 cash and $207,000,000 contract authorizations for the army, navy and other government branches participating in the defense program.

Informed sources said these sums would be sufficient to meet expenditures for draft trainees and mobilized National Guardsmen until well into the 1941 calendar year.

Although final congressional action on the appropriations was expected to require several days, all states already have received tentative allotments from it to defray the cost of printing the conscription forms and literature

Belmont Trust To Pay $89,498

Judge Arthur W. Dolan in supreme court, it was announced today, has allowed the petition of Garrett S. Hoag, director of liquidation, to terminate the liquidation of the Belmont Trust Co., and to pay a final commercial department dividend totalling $89,498.49.

This distribution will be as follows: The depositors, under this dividend, will get an amount equal to 15½ per cent of their original balances as they stood Feb. 19, 1934, which was the date a reorganization plan for the bank was approved by the courts.

There are two exceptions to this dividend payment. Depositors who already have received more than 73 per cent of their original balances will get nothing. Those who have received more than 57½ per cent but less than 73 per cent will get enough to bring the total to 73 per cent.

Chasing Squirrel In Boat Costs $3

Let the fate of 32-year-old Charles Lamont be a warning to anyone else who goes chasing grey squirrels around in an outboard motorboat! He was fined $3 in Waltham court.

Metropolitan Police Officer Thomas Tevlin said Lamont chased the swimming squirrel in the Charles river, hit it four times and killed it. It's against M. D. C. rules to kill squirrels. Lamont, who lives in Main st., Waltham, pleaded nolo.

"I thought it was a big rat," he said mournfully.

Navy Enters Fight To Save Old Colony

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—The Navy Department intervened today in opposition to the proposal of the Old Colony Railroad to abandon its so-called Boston group lines.

Rear Admiral W. B. Woodson, judge advocate of the Navy, was authorized to intervene by the Interstate Commerce Commission on his contention that the proposed abandonment would be detrimental to the national defense.

An Interstate Commerce Commission examiner has recommended that the Old Colony be allowed to abandon the Boston group.

"The Old Colony railroad now serves the naval ammunition depot at Hingham, Mass.," Woodson said in his petition. "This depot is the only naval facility of its kind on the New England coast. Continued unimpaired rail service to the depot is vitally essential in the interest of national defense. Water communication to the depot is available for tugs and barges only through shallow water and through a very narrow channel."

Woodson also told the ICC that the Fore River shipbuilding plant of the Bethlehem Steel Co., was located on the Old Colony at Quincy, Mass. The proposed abandonment, he contended, would seriously impair the shipyard's ability to fill contracts for the construction of battleships, cruisers, destroyers and various other vessels and "thereby seriously obstruct and delay the national defense program."

Woodson said the Old Colony could expect a substantial increase of business, both freight and passenger, as a result of increased operations

Stores to Close on Legion Parade Route

Department and specialty stores along the route of the American Legion parade, Tuesday, Sept. 24, will remain closed all that day, the Retail Trade Board announced today.

ARMY OF MILLION MEN, LEGION PLAN

A resolution strongly urging Congress to provide immediately for equipment and maintenance of a regular military and naval force of no fewer than 1,000,000 men will be sponsored by the American Legion's committee on national defense when the Legion opens its national convention here Monday, it was officially revealed today.

The Legion defense committee's head, Chairman Warren H. Atherton of Stockton, Cal., told interviewers on his arrival in Boston:

"America so far has prepared-ness only on paper. With national defense appropriations totalling more than $10,000,000,000, actual defense preparations have not progressed much beyond the blueprint stage.

NEED MORE THAN DOLLARS

"Congress enacted the present defense bill in a conscientious effort to remedy the terrible neglect of past years, neglect the American Legion has consistently pointed out since birth of its organization more than 21 years ago.

"Billions appropriated and materials on order are a start in the right direction, but dollars will not fire bullets and orders cannot stop bullets.

"Until dollars and orders are converted into armament, planes and ships, they are less protection than a cellophane suit in a holocaust.

"This committee is going to sponsor a resolution calling for immediate establishment and maintenance of an army and navy totalling at least 1,000,000 men.

WANTS U. S. SECURE

"We want America strong enough to meet any possible invasion and turn it back so that our homes may remain intact and families secure.

"But we would prefer to fight outside the United States rather than see any part of this country destroyed or menaced by destruction."

An important change in the Legion's stand in regard to veterans' preference in Civil Service job appointments will be recommended by the veterans' preference committee, its chairman, Frank A. Mathews of Camden, N. J., said today.

"We feel," he said, "that it's time for the Legion to abandon its adamant stand of years and advocate legislation under which veterans seeking Civil Service appointments would first be obliged to pass the competitive examination, then have their five of ten points for military service added to their grade. This would eliminate incompetents and give jobs to deserving veterans capable of holding them."

Judge Richard Hartshorne of Newark, N. J., chairman of the American Legion's committee on law and order, predicted a Legion convention resolution calling for a drive against spies and saboteurs. He said his committee would have an executive meeting Sunday. He commented further.

"At this meeting the committee will have before it the recent results of the federal-state conference on law enforcement, held in Washington, D. C.

"The war overshadows all else now.

"There is no present armed invasion planned for this nation, but there has been planned, and now in operation, an invasion of spies and saboteurs in this country.

"Accordingly the law and order committee has directed its attention to the control of the criminal activities of these subversive groups and the maintenance of law and order in that regard.

"The war against these foreign invaders by the legion is going to be launched here in Boston and we hope to see it through to a finish."

While early Legionnaire arrivals are chiefly members of various national Legion department committees which have pre-convention meetings scheduled, the huge vanguard of 300,000 visitors to the city for the conclave began arriving today.

From reports of the convention corporation housing committee today, more than 10,000 Legionnaires, wives and children, along with auxiliary members, were assigned their sleeping quarters during the past 48 hours.

Child Cripples To See Parade

As guests of Mayor Tobin and the city of Boston, more than 800 crippled children and orphans will see the American Legion parade, Sept. 24, from grandstand seats on the City Hall lawn, the mayor announced today.

Department heads and political notables, who have occupied the City Hall grandstand on previous occasions, will be rigidly excluded this time, according to Mayor Tobin's orders.

Workmen began erecting the grandstand today. Box lunches for the children will be provided by the mayor at his personal expense.

MYSTERY MAN BUCKLEY MUST REST

Whether he was still suffering from "the strain of a very aggressive campaign"—as he explained it—or was only rehearsing his lines for a meeting with Democratic party leaders this afternoon, Mystery Man Thomas J. Buckley was once more in seclusion today.

The political phantom, who won the nomination for State auditor because more than 150,000 Democrats followed the advice "Vote for 'Tom' Buckley," has come out of his shell but once since primary day. That was to deny that he had capitalized on the name and fame of former State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley of Abington.

But he has agreed to meet Chairman William H. Burke, Jr., and other members of the Democratic State committee at the Bellevue Hotel late today.

"HE'S DOWN ON CAPE"

And they can hardly wait. In fact among the groups that paid passing visits to the Buckley address in Pinckney st., reporters thought there might have been a party emissary or two trying to get a look at their new star before his formal debut. Maybe even talk with him. They didn't.

"He's not here. He's away. He's down on the Cape," a blonde young woman called out from the safety of a second floor window. At that she only made her appearance when the thumping at the door got too loud.

There was virtue to this declaration, too. It was the same story that would-be visitors had received since Thomas J. Buckley's total of votes began to pile up Tuesday. And in a letter to the Democratic state committee the mystery man himself told that story.

THANKS VOTERS

Some disillusioned citizens who were unkind enough to say that they thought they were voting for the former state auditor and present deputy collector of internal revenue, Thomas H. Buckley, were set right in their places today in Nominee Thomas J.'s letter.

"I am deeply grateful to my many friends and thousands of

THOMAS J. BUCKLEY
'Man Nobody Knows'

1926 he liked Hemenway st. better. In 1928 he was domiciled in Huntington ave. In 1930 he was breathing the Roxbury air from a Dudley st. house, but the following year he was living in Evans Way, Back Bay.

In 1932 he and a brother, William, a Boston policeman now on sick leave, lived in Blake st., Hyde Park. In February of that year William married Gladys McDougall, a Belmont nurse. They all lived in Blake st. until last year, then moved in to Pinckney st.

It may have been Gladys who poked her head out of the second-story window today to shoo visitors away, but if it was, she wouldn't tell and apparently she is as much of a mystery to the neighbors as brother-in-law Thomas is to the politicians. When the Buckleys want privacy they get it.

Nominee Mystery Man Buckley's business career was almost as varied as his addresses. From a shoe machinery plant in South Boston where he went to work as a stock boy in 1912, he moved to Bridgeport, Ct., as a production man.

He worked for a Roxbury drug manufacturing company for a while, then went into business for himself in North Reading, living part of the time in Haverhill st., that town. He ran a gasoline station and grocery store.

WAS WPA CLERK

For five years, during the early '30s, he did investigating and title-chasing for lawyers, but under sponsorship of the late David A. Shaw, Mayor Mansfield's chairman of the election commission, Buckley got a job with the city of Boston assessing department.

Some City Hall employes remember him "vaguely." They remember much better that some of his campaign cards, bearing the simple message: "Vote for Tom Buckley for Auditor," were passed around the Hall just before the primaries.

Buckley, after the assessing job, moved into WPA circles as a clerk and that was the job he quit in August because he was afraid the Hatch act would bar him from running for State auditor.

He had 500 cards printed and distributed, two banners on automobiles, and even addressed a large Armenian group in Franklin last Sunday, he explained. It was quite a job gathering 135,215 votes throughout the state, even though he didn't talk on the radio, make speeches in halls, get his picture in the papers and do other orthodox things like opposing candidates did.

Leo D. Walsh of the Boston City Bureau of Americanization, another of the victims of the Buckley landslide, remarked wryly today that he had some consolation in the fight anyhow.

"Buckley's mother's maiden name was Walsh," said Walsh. And that was right.

VOTE
TOM BUCKLEY X
DEMOCRAT
For State Auditor

THE WINNING NAME
But Where Is He?

Democratic voters throughout the Commonwealth for the confidence reposed in me . . ." the missive read.

And as a postscript, the candidate explained his extreme desire for privacy. It read:

"Due to the strain of a very aggressive campaign, I am leaving at once for the Cape for a rest."

HE GOES PLACES

Mystery Man Buckley may have been on Cape Cod and then again he may not have been, for his letter came out of his tiny campaign office on Beacon st., but in any case he is not a man to be baffled by places to go.

Election commission records at City Hall today showed that Buckley, born in East Boston, has had many abodes since he cast his first ballot in 1921 at the age of 26. At that time he lived in West Newton street.

For the next couple of years he wasn't registered, but in 1925, he gave a Columbus ave. address. By

FAITH U.S. NEED, SAYS WILLKIE

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN EN ROUTE LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19 (INS) — California, Democratic in 1932 and 1936, was urged today by Wendell Willkie to reject the New Deal and President Roosevelt in 1940 and elect an administration which has faith in the people, faith in industry, and faith in its ability to build an adequate national defense.

It was at San Diego that he charged:

"In the seven and a half years that the New Deal has been in power it has attempted to solve many problems. The standard formula has been the appropriation of more money, or the concentration of more power in the hands of the President, or both.

"Consequently we now have a public debt approaching fifty billion dollars; and Mr. Roosevelt has the power to change at will the value of money, to raise and lower tariffs, to close our banks and stock exchanges, and to appoint and virtually control commissions that regulate from Washington almost all our business.

"It is a significant fact that Mr. Roosevelt has never tried to solve our problems the other way —that is by economy in government and by the encouragement of business. He has never tried the simple, homely remedy of confidence—confidence in us, in our enterprises, in our ability to make things work.

"What we want is a government that has faith in us. When we set up a regulatory commission, we do not want that commission to treat us like thieves or at least like children. We want it to regulate us as grown-up people, eager and able to do a job.

"That is my prescription for recovery. I know that the American people will do best if their enterprises are set free."

New York Times Supports Willkie

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—The New York Times, which supported Franklin D. Roosevelt for President in 1932 and 1936, came out against a third term today in an editorial supporting Wendel L. Willkie.

The Times, an Independent-Democratic newspaper, has not supported a Republican presidential candidate since 1908. Observing that it was making its choice in "one of the greatest crises of this nation's history," the paper said it chose Willkie "primarily for these reasons":

"Because we believe he is better equipped than Mr. Roosevelt to provide this country with an adequate defense; because we believe he is a practical liberal who understands the need of increased production; because we believe that the fiscal policies of Mr. Roosevelt have failed disastrously; because we believe that at a time when the traditional safeguards of Democracy are failing everywhere it is particularly important to honor and preserve the American tradition against vesting the enormous powers of the presidency in the hands of any man for three consecutive terms of office."

Governor's Cousin to Wed

A wartime romance between a Chestnut Hill post-deb, a cousin of Gov. Saltonstall, and a young captain in the Royal Welsh Fusiliers was disclosed today in the few lines of a simple engagement announcement.

Bride-to-be is attractive Dorothy West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Saltonstall West of Chestnut Hill rd. The fighting man who won her heart is Capt. T. Desmond Butler of Somerset, England.

No date for the wedding was announced with the engagement, but intimate friends of Miss West say that it is going to be very soon.

Capt. Butler, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Butler of Somerset, expects to be ordered to duty in Africa, they said.

Miss West, a debutante of the 1933-34 season, is a noted dog fancier in her own right, raising greyhounds for show dogs as well as pets. In this she follows a hobby of her father. The Wests have extensive kennels in Newton.

She attended Fox Hollow School in Virginia and is a member of the Vincent and Chilton clubs. She is an ardent sportswoman and is rated an excellent tennis player.

YOUTH QUIZZED IN PLOT

A 23-year-old Arlington youth was questioned today at police headquarters concerning an alleged extortion plot against Samuel Tuttetman, well-known business man, who was ordered in a series of threatening letters to drop a package containing $7000 on the railroad tracks in Sullivan sq.

Sgt. Thomas Keating and a squad of Charlestown officers concealed themselves in the vicinity at the appointed time, just before midnight, and the package was dropped, as arranged.

Soon the Arlington youth appeared and picked the bundle up, police reported. He was seized immediately and taken to the City sq. station for questioning. He denied any knowledge of the plot and asserted he picked up the package out of curiosity.

In checking on the youth's identity, however, investigators learned he was a relative of the Cambridge business man and he was ordered held for the lineup by Lieut. Patrick J. O'Donnell, in charge of the probe.

Tutterman, whose home is in Austin st., Cambridge, was quoted by police as saying he had received several letters demanding $7000.

"No wonder careful mothers insist on Hood's Supertest"

Says MRS. CHARLES S. FRENCH

of Beacon Hill, one of the seven representative women who verified by personal investigation the facts about Supertest Grade "A" Milk.

7 CONSUMER VERIFIED FACTS

Seven housewives checked, at our expense, every step in the production of Hood's Supertest Grade "A" Milk. Here are the facts they verified:—

1 Verified Selection of Farms and Herds.
2 Verified Purity.
3 Verified Cleanliness and Care.
4 Verified Protection.
5 Verified Flavor.
6 Verified Control of Methods.
7 Verified Supervision by the Supertest Council.

"I really found out what a Milk Laboratory is for—when I visited the Hood Plant.

"I watched them making the countless routine daily tests—for purity, safety, and nourishment—insuring the remarkable quality of Supertest Grade "A" Milk.

"When they showed me how the supply from each individual farm is tested—I realized as never before how thoroughly this Milk is protected in every way."

Why not do what so many other careful and intelligent mothers are doing—ask for Supertest from your Hood Route Salesman—or call the nearest Hood Office—or CHArlestown 0600.

You pay no more for Supertest than for other Grade "A" Milks—so order today!

MRS. ROOSEVELT DENIES DRAFT PERILS DEMOCRACY

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

So many women and young people have written me lately about the selective draft that I think I shall list some of the questions that have come to me and answer them as best I can.

I am not surprised that many young people are honestly troubled to see us do something which they feel can only mean preparation for aggressive war. Some people feel that we are providing a way that leads to dictatorship.

The answer lies in our own hands. We, the people, control our government and can prevent dictatorship and an aggressive war. It happens that we need little from other nations, so our temptation to go out and grab from others is very slight.

We have convinced ourselves for many years that if we minded our own business, there was no reason why anyone should want to attack us.

Since we feel kindly towards the rest of the world, in return they must, of course, feel kindly towards us.

THINKING MUST CHANGE

This has been our reasoning, but new circumstances change one's thinking. Whatever the causes and the reasons, we have to face the fact that there exists in the world today a power.

He believes only in force, he pays no attention to justice or the rights of other human beings and therefore other human beings must be ready to use the same force.

We have watched nation after nation that was not equally strong, go down before this power. This power is not only physical, though physically it is strong enough.

It is also a power based on firing the imagination of youth with a belief that they are essential because they are creating a powerful state to bring work and food and shelter and some measure of contentment to all the members of their "chosen race." Their belief is a passion and a religion because they are the instruments of service.

Such a force can not be fought in our traditional ways, so we have to change. We have to give youth, not an easy life, but the belief that they are essential to the building of a democracy so that the love of democracy will be as enthusiastic and as passionate as their belief in religion.

MUST GIVE MORE

Democracy must give them not only what the totalitarian states offer, but, in addition, individual liberty; the priceless heritage of offering their service voluntarily and directing their own futures, rather than trusting to one hero and following him blindly.

This is well understood by those who write me and therefore, they feel that we need to recognize first of all that we have met our obligations to the individual and given every citizen that which makes life worth living.

Secondly, that he can only retain his dignity as an individual if he offers his service to the state voluntarily.

Just as we have to face the fact that because of outside circumstances we have to change our traditional attitude and build up our national defenses, so we have to face the facts of human nature. Hence my belief in a selective draft.

NO BUREAUCRACY FEAR

Will we build up an army bureaucracy?

No, I hardly think so. Even a large army, numerically very great in comparison with what we have ever had, will amount to a very small part of the general population, and we are not given to deifying the military services.

In fact, I think we should revise our attitude in this respect. We are now asking young men to come into these services for our protection, and yet in many places, the soldier or the sailor gets scant welcome.

We put young men under strict discipline for weeks at a time and then give them leave, and high spirits are understandable enough. When it goes beyond that it can certainly be controlled. The boys who are good enough to die for us are good enough to rub shoulders with us in any place.

ARE CHANCES EQUAL?

Here is a curious question:

"Will the boys who are drafted and not put in the army have a better chance at jobs in private industry?"

No. I think under the selective draft system, all young men will have a better chance at training in lines where work is really needed, which is something they have been trying to obtain through one avenue or another for some time.

Then there is a fear that military influence will become so important in the minds of the people that it will gradually seep into the educational systems of our schools.

Of course this may happen, but if we are aware of the danger, and we wish to keep our educational system free of military influence, certainly our boards of education are competent to deal with the problem. This is again a question of people taking enough trouble to control their own educational system and not to leave it in the hands of others.

TRAINING FOR ALL

I agree with the people who feel that just to give young people a year's military training and only to do it for a few, leaving a big group of young people untouched is a bad thing.

Any real program of national defense must face the whole problem of unemployment among youth and realize that everyone is entitled to training in trades, or industry or professions, and in addition that we have an obligation to make our economic system work so there will be jobs for everyone when their period of training comes to an end.

PROFITEERING CURBS

Again, it seems to me that real national defense means the mobilization of the country as a whole, so that each and every one of us receives training and helps to make their community a better place in which to live.

The last stumbling block seems to be what will happen to our social and economic system when the armament program is completed.

What about profiteering under this program?

Well, I believe that we had enough experience in the days of 1919 and 1920 to know that there are some pitfalls to be avoided. No individual industries must be left holding the bag and facing ruin when the need for great war preparation slows down.

DRAFT OF INDUSTRY

I think the government can control this by distributing loss and perhaps by planning ahead of time how to utilize in new ways, both men and machines which are not needed for the production of armaments any longer.

We must take some risks with our money just as, under the selective draft, some risks must be taken by young men with their lives.

Profiteering, too, can be controlled and it seems to me that all the hue and cry about not conscripting industry or property in the form of industry is rather curious. The government has always had the right, for the sake of the public good, to conscript whatever was needed, and in different ways this right is exercised now, in times of peace as well as of war.

DRAFT MAY SKIP FILM HEROES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—It's a good guess today that none of Hollywood's handsome young leading men will be drafted from the studios into army training camps.

Selective service experts privately expressed the unofficial opinion that stage, radio and movie starts probably would be deferred from service because of thheir importance to a so-called "essential induty"—essential, that is, in maintaining civilian morale by entertainment.

Among the better known and higher paid Hollywood figures who are within the draft age and more or less without dependents, except perhaps their agents and some ex-wives, are:

James Stewart, Wayne Morris, Eddie Albert, Jeffrey Lynn, Lew Ayres, John Carroll, Dennis O'Keefe and Cesar Romero.

Whether or not thhey will be deferred, however, will depend upon how thhey are classified by the local boards in thheir home districts. And if thhey should be deferred, they cannot even volunteer for the year's training—the law specifies that.

MORE COAST ARTILLERY ON WAY

With Battery A already at Camp Edwards in Falmouth, more units of the211th Coast Artillery left Columbus ave. armory for camp today to begin a one-year period of intensive training as regular Army men.

Other units will depart tomorrow, the delay caused by physical examinations and assembling of equipment.

While the 211th began training, the 241st Coast Artillery, the only Massachusetts outfit mobilized, was in training at armories in Chelsea, Fall River and New Bedford. The regiment will take up stations at forts in Boston harbor beginning Sept. 26 and as speedily thereafter as barracks are completed.

WHY WE NEED

THE AMAZING VITAMIN B¹ AS A SUPPLEMENT TO OUR DIET

MANY modern foods are over refined and robbed of their vitamins and minerals. The bolting operation in the refining of flour is said to take 80% to 90% of the Vitamin B¹ and more than half the minerals.

Foods prepared in the primitive fashion of 100 years ago were said to be 12 times as rich in Vitamin B¹ as our diets today. To the average man refined sugar and refined flour furnish a large part of the fuel requirements of the body but are lacking in the necessary protective elements (vitamins).

There is a vast difference between maximum or best possible nutrition and serious dietary deficiency. Unrecognized and sub clinical malnutrition is widespread and dangerous.

Incorrect preparation of food, certain food habits and poor planning of menus rob us of necessary vitamin and mineral elements. Surveys have shown that more than 40% of the people of this country are not getting vitamins and minerals in their food sufficient to maintain maximum health and vigor.

WHAT VITAMIN B¹ IS and ITS VALUE

CONCENTRATED VITAMIN B¹ in crystalline form is the realization of a 30-year dream by one of America's foremost nutritional scientists. B¹ is now regarded as a highly valuable dietary supplement and has been eloquently characterized by its discoverer in these approximate words—the lack of no other accessory substance leads to so early, so profound and so universal disaster as does the lack of B¹. Described previously as the "mysterious vitamin," "the forgotten vitamin," today Vitamin B¹ is being used by doctors in the clinical treatment of vitamin deficient people more than any other vitamin.

Scientific journals, Medical journals, magazines and newspapers, clinics, physicians, laboratories are hailing Concentrated Vitamin B¹ as one of the greatest discoveries in nutritional science. A 400-page book has been written about Vitamin B¹ and its value in medicine.

B¹ occurs in natural foods but the refining, preparation and processing of foods often leads to its destruction and the average over-refined diet of civilized man frequently needs to be supplemented with concentrated B¹.

One of America's foremost physicians states that "Among the most important medical advances of the year 1939 was the fact that Vitamin B¹ deficiency is widespread and that Thiamin Chloride (B¹) relieves nerve disorders caused by the deficiency."

B¹ DEFICIENCY often RESULTS in
- Impairment of appetite and digestion.
- Loss of weight and vigor.
- Lack of intestinal muscle tone, and constipation.
- Heart disorders.
- Degeneration of the nervous system.
- Atrophy of muscles.
- Extreme deficiency often leads to ulcers and colitis.
- Stunted growth in children.

CHRONIC ALCOHOLISM

Special: Vitamin B¹ has been characterized as having a healing action on diseased nerve tissue and its efficiency in treating nerve inflammation associated with chronic alcoholism is spectacular.

Splendid results have followed use of B¹ in the treatment of certain forms of Neuritis. B¹ is recommended as a valuable adjunct to diet in pregnancy.

Clinics report there is no danger of overdose as system simply takes what is needed and throws off the rest.

(In cases of advanced stages of certain diseases B¹ is most effective when given in intramuscular intravenous injections by a physician.)

MEASURED AMOUNT

The best way to be sure you are getting an adequate supply of B¹ is to take it in tablet form. Genuine B¹ Thiamin Chloride, prepared especially for G. S. Cheney. Each tablet contains 300 International Units B¹, a definite measured amount. Other tablets of higher unit strength. Biologically standardized.

Italians Rout British Forces, Duce Is Told

ROME, Sept. 19 (AP)—Italy has thrown 14 Libyan divisions (about 170,000 men) in addition to Italian troops into the drive into Egypt and pushed back the British in a disorderly retreat, Marshal Rodolfo Graziani reported to Mussolini today.

The Italian commander's report was made as a high command communique disclosed that the British fleet and air force had bombed and shelled Italian positions along 350 miles of the Egyptian and Libyan coast, as well as in East Africa and the Dodecanese islands, in the eastern Mediterranean.

Graziani was reported to have told Mussolini he used 2000 motor trucks in the eastward drive which surprised the British.

British naval planes bombed Bengasi, Italian Libya, Monday, setting a merchant ship on fire and "probably" sinking a destroyer and damaging several other ships, the British Admiralty announced today.—Editor's Note.

BRITISH LOSE TANKS

British military experts had estimated only 150,000 troops and but few trucks could be used over the terrain available to the advance, air force, Graziana reported.

The British fled in disorder, abandoning equipment along the desert roads, losing more than half their tanks and armored cars, and suffering from shortage of gasoline and water under the bombing and machine-gunning of the Italian air force.

DUCE SEES HITLER ACE ON SPAIN

ROME, Sept. 19—Hitler's foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, conferred with Mussolini this afternoon and on this consultation may pivot the next turn in the European war.

Linked with the talks at Il Duce's Palazzo Venezia was the possibility of a broadened war, with indications Spain might be drawn in, at least to the extent of permitting an Axis drive across her territory against Britain's Gibraltar stronghold.

The Axis powers are determined on a "totalitarian" victory over Britain, according to Virginio Gayda, and in this fight to the finish other European nations are involved "not as spectators alone."

This comment by Italian Fascism's editorial spokesman-in-chief gave considerable point to the Axis council of war.

Nazis Demand French Wheat

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Official British sources declared today that besides 20,000,000 Reichmarks nominally ($8,000,000) which France is required to pay each day for maintenance of the German army of occupation, the Germans have demanded 8,000,000 quintals (about 30,000,000 bushels) of wheat.

These quarters expressed belief that some of the grain already has been delivered.

On a yearly basis the daily payment for support of the occupation troops would amount to more than 7,000,000,000 Reichmarks, these informants pointed out, comparing it with the World War decision of 1921 when reparations to be paid by defeated Germany were set at 2,000,000,000 marks a year, to rise after 11 years to 6,000,000,000.

French Bow; Jap Troops in Indo

VICHY, Sept. 19 (INS)—France will accept the inevitable and bow to Japanese demands for passage of troops through French Indo-China, Foreign Minister Paul Baudouin indicated today in an interview with representatives of the American press.

In Washington, yesterday, Secretary of State Hull said he was loath to believe Japan would send troops into French Indo-China in violation of its pledge to uphold the "status quo" in the Orient—Editor's note.

Nazis Loose Bombs On British Museum

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—German bombs damaged the courtyard of the British Museum and other West End London buildings holding art or historic treasures, it was disclosed today, but the treasures either had been removed at the start of the war or were protected against injury.

The British Press Ass'n said the inner temple (law courts) library and the public record office also were damaged in the raids.

The courtyard of the Wallace collection and the stores of Messrs. Peter Robinson also were described as "affected."

The British museum in peace times contains such treasures as the Rosetta stone, which is the key to Egyptian hierglyphics, the Green Alexandrianus of the Green Bible, Queen Mary's psalter of the 14th century, the renowned Elgin marbles from the Partnenon at Athens and probably the largest collection of printed books in the world.

The Wallace collection, in the heart of the fashionable West End, has been described as possibly the most important single collection of art in London.

Formed mainly by the fourth Marquis of Hertford (1800-70), the collection embraces more than 750 paintings, water colors and drawings, notably of the French and Dutch schools; a collection of 18th century French furniture, Sevres porcelain, arms and armor.

LONDON IN RUINS FROM TNT BOMBS

Bridge from the Houses of Parliament, the courtyard of the world-famous British Museum, the Wallace Art Collection courtyard, the Inner Temple (law courts) library and the public records office. Oxford and Regent sts., two of the West End's busiest thoroughfares, were closed to traffic.

Forty-eight German planes were destroyed in yesterday's air battles, the air ministry said. Twelve British planes were lost, but nine of their pilots were reported safe.

The government said at least 90 persons were killed and 350 injured last night in London. This compared with 306 killed and 1937 injured the night of Sept. 7, the highest casualty list of any single night.

A VERITABLE INFERNO

The Germans threw great numbers of their Luftwaffe into the night raid, loosing a new type of explosive fire bomb as well as the usual explosives and incendiaries, causing buildings to sway with the power of their blasts and great ruddy fires to light the sky.

To their hideous noise were added the varied sounds of anti-aircraft shooting, drumming motors, crackling fire, shattering glass and the screams of injured and frightened people.

More than 1000 persons marched in an eerie procession through fire-lit streets from a shelter more than 60 feet underground when one mammoth bomb hit a famous London building above them and set it ablaze. They took refuge in surface shelters.

HEAVIEST RAID OF WAR

With the German attacks thus sharply intensified — London had eight raids yesterday making a total of 103 for the war—the British censors today suddenly forbade publications of the times, both starting and ending, of new raid alarms.

The ruling, which will prevent the outside world from knowing immediately when the capital is being attacked, was applied, the censors said, because publication of the times of raids was considered prejudicial to public security.

The government said "small dwelling houses" in suburbs south of the Thames were the main objectives. In other areas, apartment houses, business buildings, stores and hotels were hit.

But the British were not idle. The air ministry announced that Royal Air Force fliers delivered a terrific assault on German concentrations in "invasion ports" on French and Belgian coasts, including a "big attack" on the big French port of Le Havre and raids on Boulogne, Calais, Dunkirk and Ostend.

"Invasion ports and shipping and barges" were attacked, the ministry said, as well as "marshalling yards in Germany and enemy-occupied territory."

The attack appeared to have been one of the biggest, if not the biggest, assault of the war on these German-held points. The British airmen were said to have left the French coast in flames for miles and miles.

Merciless Bombing, Nazis' Aim

BERLIN, Sept. 19 (AP)—A call for unlimited bomb warfare on England in retaliation for the reported bombing of a German hospital was sounded in the German press today.

It followed cautious hints that the aerial struggle might go on through the winter, but with new pressure of some sort on other "vulnerable" points of the British empire.

Der Angriff, Propaganda Minister Goebbels' paper, demanded thousand-fold retaliation for the bombing at Bethel, Prussia, in which the high command said nine children were killed and 13 injured by RAF night raiders.

Another newspaper, Neuhtausgabe, said: "Hereafter not the slightest consideration need be taken for British civilians."

Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung indicated: "The scoring of accounts will be terrible."

The high command, summarizing the last 24 hours' actions reported bombardment of docks and port facilities at Tilbury, British government shipyards at Chatham, oil tanks at London's Victoria docks, several ships, including a tanker, which were left burning; the Silvertown and Royal Albert docks at London as well as "other important objectives," port facilities at Liverpool, chemical works at Billingham-on-Tyne, docks at Newcastle and airports in central England.

Meanwhile, said the high command, "the mining of Southern English ports continues."

British plane losses yesterday were set at 38 as against 13 German planes missing.

The British said the score was 48 to 12 in Britain's favor. Editor's Note.

9174 MORE WARPLANES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Secretary Stimson announced today the War Department had signed contracts since July 1 for 9174 of 18,441 warplanes for which Congress has provided funds at this session.

Reviewing progress made by the army in reinforcing defenses in the last three months, Stimson said the figures were for airplane purchases "as of today."

At the same time Stimson, in a series of announcements, disclosed tentative plans to call to active duty approximately 37,000 National Guard officers and men in November. They will comprise the third and fourth National Guard increments to be called out.

Under present plans, no further units will be ordered to service before Jan. 3.

Approximately 3800 reserve corps lieutenants now on active duty will be promoted temporarily.

The War Department has ordered a group of 48 regular and reserve officers and one civilian to take instruction in classifying soldiers in a course to open Monday at the Army War College.

EDITH GETCHELL DEAD

WORCESTER, Sept. 19—Mrs. Edith Loring Getchell, 85, one of America's most noted women orators, is dead today at her home.

Scot Regiment Now at Bermuda

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—Passengers arriving on the liner President Roosevelt said today that a regiment of Scottish soldiers who participated in the Norwegian campaign and the evacuation of Dunkirk were now quartered at Bermuda. They said the men refused to discuss their mission at the vacation resort.

F. D. to Philadelphia For Degree and Talk

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (INS)—The White House announced today President Roosevelt will leave tonight for Philadelphia, where tomorrow at 1 p. m. he will speak at the University of Pennsylvania and receive an honorary law degree.

Prior to his afternoon address, which may answer some of Republican Presidential Nominee Willkie's recent charges, Mr. Roosevelt plans to inspect the Philadelphia navyyard, the new Jefferson naval hospital and the army and navy supply depots.

Globe's Greatest Bill Tomorrow

The Globe Theater is planning its most glorified revue of the season, "Miss America," for American Legion week.

Starting tomorrow it will present its most pretentious burlesque production this year, a lavish stage show glittering with talent and starring Diane Raye, international footlights celebrity.

And what's more it has scheduled FOUR—not one—midnight performances for the week on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Prominently spotted in the show are Joan Collette, a lively charmer whose synonym is bonfire, and Crystal Ames, one of burlesque's most versatile artists.

Guaranteed to keep fun unconfined are such hilarity raisers as Tommy Raft, Pert Grant, Buddy DuBois, Joey Ross, Harry and Irving Benson and many other comics.

Vaudeville's representatives include the Seven Melody Singers Rodney and Gould, Yogi Yahoodi and King & Roche.

The day's program will begin daily at 9 a. m. with two film attractions, "The Garden of Allah," with Marlene Dietrich, and "20,000 Men a Year," starring Randolph Scott.

There are three complete burlesque shows daily, and, as you were told some paragraphs back, three additional midnight shows on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights in honor of the visiting Legionnaires as well as the regular "Owl" Sunday midnight show.

DIANE RAYE — International revue star who headlines the Globe's new show, "Miss America," opening tomorrow.

Walter Wanger Arrives Friday

Walter Wanger, president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, will be greeted by a Friars Club delegation as well as representative New England theater and film executives upon his arrival at East Boston Airport at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

He is to be the Friars Club's honor guest at luncheon, scheduled for 12:30 and to be attended by more than 100 public officials, newspapermen and club members.

Known as Hollywood's most progressive producer and champion of American principles, Mr. Wanger's experience embraces the general managership of five studios on three continents for one company, vice-presidency of another and 10 years as an independent producer.

During the first World War he served under New York's Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia with the American Air Corps in Italy, for which he trained at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Later he served as attache to the American Delegation at the Peace Conference of Paris.

LAKEWOOD'S FINALE

The Lakewood Players, as the final offering of their 40th season, this week are presenting Noel Coward's modern comedy, "Private Lives."

Revolt Epic On Two Bills

The Scollay and Modern screens, starting tomorrow, will feature, "South of Pago-Pago," tropical adventure starring Victor McLaglen, Jon Hall, Frances Farmer, Olympe Branda, Gene Lockhart and Douglas Dumbrille.

"South of Pago-Pago" is the story of revolt in the South Seas with a thousand desperate natives pitted against a handful of white men who betrayed them.

On the same bill will be Elsa Maxwell's "Public Deb. No. 1," starring George Murphy, Brenda Joyce, Mischa Auer, Charlie Ruggles, Ralph Bellamy, Maxie Rosenbloom and, of course, the well-upholstered Miss Maxwell.

Gayety Offers Beauty Parade

A cavalcade of cute cuticles to completely dazzle the visiting firemen has been assembled for the Gayety's new stage show, starting tomorrow.

Probably the most eyetaking in this eyetaking aggregation is Paula Lynd, a New York World's Fair burlesque favorite, who is not only radiantly beautiful, but who offers the newest version of the Can-Can-Conga.

Second only to this beauty queen are Jean Pardou, the Venus of the burlesque circuit, and Gladys Fox, another pulchritudinous charmer. Then there are Estelle Montello, also known as the "Tropical Heat Wave," Hazel Walker and a flock of other lovelies.

Harry "Shuffles" LeVan, who never fails his audience, is the featured comedian. Assisting him are Charles "Bimbo" Davis, Billy "Bump" Mack and quantities of other laugh-provokers.

Also prominent in the cast of 60 are Paul Ryan, Bob Rogers, the Mitchell Sisters, Bob Goodman, Chuck Gregory and the 30 song-and-dance girls.

Screen attractions scheduled are "Passage to Alcatraz," with Jack Holt, and "Grandpa Goes to Town," with the Higgins Family.

What is known as the "special midnight shambles" takes place every Friday night, including tomorrow night, at 11:30 p. m. The three daily stage shows start at 12 m., 3 and 8:30 p. m.

'Queen of the Baton' at Boston

Betty Atkinson, beautiful "World's Champion Majorette" and "Queen of the Baton," is appearing throughout the week at the RKO Boston Theater as a special added attraction to the regular stage show "Shoot the Works," featuring Jack Teagarden and his orchestra.

Miss Atkinson is a member of the Victor McLaglen Post of the American Legion and has been active in Legion affairs.

'HIRED WIFE' STAYS SECOND WEEK AT KEITH MEMORIAL

Sterling Acting In Screen Hit

As was to be expected, Keith-Memorial is holding over "Hired Wife," Universal's delightful comedy-drama starring Rosalind Russell, Brian Aherne and Virginia Bruce, for the benefit of visiting Legionnaires as well as the local gentry, who failed to catch it last week.

Miss Russell, as a flippant, efficient secretary in love with her boss, Brian Aherne, who in turn is in love with Miss Bruce a beauteous model, gives one of those grand performances that is becoming habitual.

Aherne's stuffy executive is another 100 per cent example of good acting. And, before we forget, don't miss Miss Bruce, one of Hollywood's few genuinely beautiful girls, who is just getting her due in acting assignments and proving all she needed was a good part to send he 'way up the ladder.

Robert Benchley—we mention last because we led off with him in the original review—is tops as Aherne's attorney.

On the same bill are "Men Against the Sky," starring Richard Dix in an exciting air drama, and "On Foreign Newsfronts."

APPEARING together for the first time, Rosalind Russell and Brian Aherne form a new romantic screen combination in "Hired Wife," held over a second week at Keith-Memorial.

Trans-Lux Offers Jungle Epic

Because she dared to do what no woman had ever done before, Osa Johnson's life story makes a novel motion picture.

The story of her thrill-packed life comes to the Trans-Lux screen tomorrow in "I Married Adventure," full of fantastic, amazing authentic thrills. The film presents more than 27 years of adventure in jungle fastness.

The Martin Johnsons, during [illegible] the heart of the Dark Continent, recorded all the jungle weirdness, mystery and beauty of Africa with motion picture cameras. The highlights of those daring journeys make up "I Married Adventure."

Also on the Trans-Lux bill is "False Rapture," starring Ona Kingsley and Mary Maguire in a drama of glorious life in Europe before the war.

MRS. OSA JOHNSON

QUIZ PHOTOG PAYS $10

If you think finding a dime on the street is lucky, then how about running into a walkin ten dollar bill?

That's what he is, this Record-American Quizzical Camera Man, and he hands out five of these crisp $10 bills every day.

For the next three weeks he will be prowling the streets, asking you and you and the other fellow such questions as "Are the White Sox a dancing team, baseball team, tight rope walkers or Montana Vigilantes?"

Or a woman might be asked what colors combine to make green. Each question has four possible answers and it's up to you to pick the right one.

Then, with a smile, he hands you the $10, while his camera catches your features to be printed in tomorrow's paper and he's off in his quest for another person who wants $10.

First winners were Harry Stewart of Hillsdale road, Somerville; Mary McKenna of St. Charles st., Boston; Matthew Davis of Hamilton st., West Roxbury; Mrs. Francis Sudhalter of Downing ave., Haverhill; and Mrs. Harold Hunt of Severance st., Lynn.

Mrs. Colombo Still Thinks Russ Alive

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19 (AP)—Mrs. Nicholas Colombo still doesn't know of the death six years ago of her son, Russ, a radio and movie crooner, but she was informed that her daughter, Anna, 40, died Tuesday.

Mrs. Colombo, a partially blind semi-invalid, has not been told of Russ' death Sept. 2, 1934, because her family and physicians feared the shock might hasten her death. She believes he is receiving plaudits on a world tour.

Laughton Glad Home Wrecked By Nazi Plane

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (INS)—Charles Laughton, the British motion picture star, said in Chicago today he had received word his home in London was damaged severely when a huge German bomber fell on it after being hit by anti-aircraft fire.

But the news didn't bother him.

"I should be glad," he said, "to sacrifice 20 houses if German bombers would smash themselves to bits on them. It was a glorious end for the house."

EVENING AMERICAN, THURSDAY, SEPT. 19, 1940

Progressives Bolt Willkie

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee)

Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska is honorary chairman of a nation-wide committee of independents working for the re-election of President Roosevelt.

Senator Norris

Associated with him are Mayor LaGuardia of New York and a host of other Republicans who have fallen away from the G. O. P. because of its failure to loosen the grip of the die-hards and Tories whose short-sighted leadership in the last decade brought the party into public disrepute.

A leading progressive in Congress for more than thirty years, Norris has made his name a symbol for honor, courage and integrity in public office. No man has been more consistent in advocating the principles in which he believes, regardless of the political consequences to his own career.

As a stripling member of the House, Norris first won national attention by leading the successful uprising to overthrow the one-man, reactionary control of Speaker Joe Cannon. "Czarism" it was called in those days. After the World War, the Senator carried on a single-handed struggle to prevent the great government-owned power plant at Muscle Shoals, Ala., from falling into the hands of the private utilities. He won that fight and Muscle Shoals was later the focal point around which the Tennessee Valley development was constructed.

"CLEAN POLITICS" BY THE G. O. P.

Twelve years ago he supported Alfred E. Smith for President because he feared the consequences of putting Herbert Hoover in the White House. For this characteristic act of independence the Republican National Committee decided to punish him. When he ran for renomination in 1930, the committee waged a sinister, despicable and underhanded campaign to bring about his defeat. Money was poured into the primary through fake organizations. A grocer boy named George Norris, who never held public office in his life, was induced to put his name on the ballot as a rival candidate to confuse the voters. These shoddy tactics incensed the voters and Norris was re-elected.

In advocating President Roosevelt's re-election, the Nebraska Senator pointed out with his customary frankness that he had disagreed with the President on some questions. But he added that Willkie represents those elements in the Republican Party against which he has fought all his life. He said:

"I feel very deeply as between these two men. I have no personal feeling regarding either one. Neither one is perfect, of course, because no human being is perfect. But one represents the progress of the people, the increasing happiness of all of us, while the other represents the domination of what I think I can demonstrate—a policy that means control by monopoly, particularly the private utility monopoly that has grown rich and powerful because of its robbery of the common people of the United States.

"He was nominated—the men who nominated him honestly thought—because there was a kind of uprising of the people but it wasn't anything of the kind. From my knowledge of the power trust he represents, it had its representatives in every section of the country, every locality, every community.

"He (Willkie) has been in that world—the utility world—all of his grown life and practically has known nothing else. And as between the two men, I feel very deeply that for the perfection of these great steps in social legislation which have been started and carried partly to completion, it would be a calamity if this program were stopped now."

CHASE OSBORN BOLTS

Progressive Republicans all over the country are bolting Willkie because they fear the domination of the interests he represents. One of these is Chase S. Osborn, former Republican Governor of Michigan, who was an elector-at-large for Landon in 1936. He was also chairman of the Michigan Republican State Central Committee in 1934. He said:

"I am for Franklin D. Roosevelt for re-election because he is a humanist, and I am against Wendell Willkie because he is an inhumanist. This sounds at first like a harsh statement. It is not when considered politically and interpreted for the good of the nation and all its people.

"Personally I have been a Republican progressive in politics. I supported Theodore Roosevelt when he was the progressive Republican candidate and when the nomination was stolen from him in Chicago, much the same as the nomination was stolen from Thomas Edmund Dewey at Philadelphia.

"Franklin Roosevelt has done more for the real material, social, intellectual and moral interests of the masses than any man who ever was President, not excepting Washington or Lincoln, because he has addressed himself to the humanisms, and has a heart flowing with kindly sentiments for the poor."

IS HENRY WALLACE TALKING WAR?

By CARLISLE BARGERON

(Assigned by Republican National Committee)

By and large, we Americans are a funny people. Remember how we have always explained the aggressions of Dictators on the ground that they had to show "action" to cover up their failures at home? This is the way we happily explained Mussolini's march into Ethiopia. Up until a few months ago it was the way we explained Hitler.

You would naturally think that we would all be in agreement now, that Mr. Roosevelt's plunge into the field of "indispensable world leadership" has the same purpose we attributed to his fellow Big Shots.

Not trying to cover anything up are you Franklin?

A lady correspondent asks us if Henry Wallace's insistence that Hitler will be happy if Roosevelt is defeated, means that the latter will lead us into war? Otherwise, she asks, what does Wallace mean? Her worry is certainly justified. The nearest we can come to definitely answering her question, though, is to say that Official Washington, and particularly Army and Navy Circles think that war is just exactly where we are headed. The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, is a semi-official publication of Army and Navy men. In its issue of Aug. 24, it says

> "Only the blind can fail to see that the United States is moving rapidly toward participation in the world struggle. Measures 'short of war' have been expanded to measures at the point of war. We have engaged in a defensive alliance with Canada; we are leasing bases in British possessions in this hemisphere; we have supplied government munitions to England, and are preapring to reinforce the British Navy with overage destroyers, A PRELIMINARY TO THE DISPATCH OF MORE POWERFUL VESSELS AND COMPLEMENTARY AIRCRAFT, TO ITS AID."

We have heard a lot of people say that Mr. Roosevelt had certainly botched up this country but they "approved" of his Foreign Policy. Aside from the fact that he is "FOR" England, just as he is "FOR" the workingman and everybody else except those who can give the workingman jobs, we would like somebody to tell us what Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy is.

Dr. Raymond Moley, one of Mr. Roosevelt's earlier confidants, revealed in his Saturday Evening Post articles that Mr. Roosevelt remarked back in 1935 that he had to "do something about Hitler." You get the impression he said this rather casually, as a fellow might say to his wife, "Remind me to call up Joe next week."

Anyway, he passed up the matter until the Fall of 1937, when he had to dig up some startling utterance to blanket his appointment of Hugo Black to the Supreme Court. He was apparently reminded that "something ought to be done about Hitler." He did "something." He bawled Hitler out. Of course, Hitler has been used to being bawled out all his life.

The next thing he "did about Hitler," as Mr. Willkie has disclosed, was to urge the meeting at Munich where Czecho-Slovakia was sold down the river. All authorities agree that this was the best time Hitler could have been effectively challenged.

Several months later he WAS challenged when he invaded Poland at a time when there was no way aid could be extended to the Poles, and the challenge was but a bluff. The famous German White Paper says that our roving Ambassador, Bill Bullitt, urged the Poles and the French to resist. It says that Bullitt, claiming to speak for the President, assured these people that our aid could be counted on before the finish. Bullitt has denied these charges. But the pro-New Deal NEW YORK DAILY NEWS reflects the views of millions of Americans when it says:

> "Of course, we realize that the Germans would commit any forgery which they thought might help them . . . Nevertheless, some of this German White Paper sounds the way Bullitt has talked, and we go on wondering whether there is any authenticity in it."

Furthermore, it is a definite fact that the Polish Ambassador to Washington, Count Jerzy Potocki, complained to his friends after the Polish collapse, that he had tried to CONVINCE MR. ROOSEVELT THAT RUSSIA WOULD BE ON THE SIDE OF HITLER—BUT THAT MR. ROOSEVELT STUBBORNLY INSISTED THAT STALIN WAS A FELLOW-DEMOCRAT.

DRAFT QUESTIONS ALL MUST ANSWER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Master copies of a two-foot placard explaining how to answer the questions to be put conscription registrants were being sent today to the 48 states.

The placards will be reproduced for posting in each of thousands of voting precincts throughout the country. An enlarged reproduction of the registration card, the placard contains exact instructions for the information which will be wanted from every man, as follows:

1—Name (give your first name first, then your middle name in full, and your family name last. Spell out each name as you give it. Example: say "John Lewis Jones" and not "Jones, John Lewis.")

2—Address (give the address where you actually live. If you do not live at a particular address, then give the address where mail will reach you quickly. Give your address in this manner: "25789 Alaska Avenue, Chicago, Ill."; or "Box 221, R. F. D. No. 1, Jonesville, Jones County, Kans."

3 Telephone (give a telephone number where you can be easily reached; either your home phone or your business phone, or the phone of a neighbor. Give the telephone exchange and city. Example: "Chicago, Midwest 6294" or "Jonesville, 3 long—1 short." If you have no telephone answer "none.")

AGE, PLACE OF BIRTH VITAL

4—Age in years (give your age in years as of your last birthday. Don't give months or days. Example: if your are "25 years 11 months" old, just say "25 years.") Date of birth (give, in order, the month, day, and year of your birth, such as "September 2, 1910.")

5—Place of birth (give the city or town, county and state and the country in which you were born. If foreign born, give the name of the country in which your place of birth was located at the time of your birth, even though the name of your country has been changed.

6 Country of citizenship (give the name of the country of which you are a citizen. If a United States citizen, answer "U. S. A." If you are a citizen of a foreign country, give the name of that country. If you have taken out first papers only, you are not a citizen of the U. S. A. Give the country of which you are still a citizen. If you have an alien registration card, give the number here.)

7—Name of person who will always know your address (give the name of the person most likely to know your whereabouts at all times. If you are living with your wife, parents, or other close relatives, give the name of the family member who can locate you easiest and quickest. If you are not living with your family, give the name of some person who can locate you quickly. In answering this question, say "Mr.," "Mrs.," or "Miss," followed by the first name, middle name, and then the last name of the person. Example: "Mr. Henry Jones," or "Miss Susan Brown," or "Mrs. Charles Black.")

8—Relationship of that person (give the relationship to you of the person who you have said will always know where to find you quickly. Example: "wife," "mother," "friend," "employer" neighbor," etc.)

GIVE ADDRESS IN DETAIL

9 Address of that person (give the address of this person. Give first the street number, then the street name or RFD number, city or town, county, and finally the state. Example: "25789 Alaska avenue, Chicago, Ill.")

10—Employer's name (give the name of the company, firm or person by whom you are employed. Give the company name, not your foreman's name. If you are in business for yourself, answer "self." If you are employed by more than one employer, give the name of the one who can usually reach you. If you are a federal, state, or local government employe, give the department or bureau for which you work. If you are working on a WPA project, answer "WPA project." If you are not working and are a college student registering in the college precinct, say "Jonesville College, student." If you are unemployed, not on WPA, and not attending school, answer "none." Examples: "Jones Hardware Co.," or "Jonesville Postoffice," or "N. Y. State Highway Dept.," or "WPA project," or "Jonesville College, student," or "None.")

11 Place of employment or business (give the street number or location of the place where you are employed. Also give the city or town, county, and the state. If you are in business for yourself, give your business address. If you are on WPA, give the address of the WPA assignment office. If you are a student in a college and not working, give the college address. If you have answered "none" when asked for your employer's name, the registrar will enter a dash — and you will not answer this question.

I affirm that I have verified above answers and that they are true. (Sign your name here exactly as you usually sign it. If you cannot write your name, make a cross mark (X). When you sign this card, the registrar will have you swear that the answers are true. If your religious belief will not permit you to swear to this, you may affirm that the answers are true. The registrar will accept your affirmation.)

They're for Willkie—His hand upraised in acknowledgement of the cheering crowd, Wendell Willkie is pictured as he spoke at Amarillo, Texas . . . cowgirls of the panhandle doffing their hats in acclamation. Today, the G. O. presidential candidate is in California . . . swinging through a four-day campaign.

Two New Hair-Do's—From Latin America, via Hollywood, comes the inspiration for these two new coiffures . . . worn by movie starlet Ann Hunter. At the left, it's authentic Pan-American, while at the right, Miss Hunter has a sleek Spanish hairdress, called the "Barcelona." The Spanish comb completes the smart evening job.

GUARD NEWFOUNDLAND COAST

Canadian Soldiers Put Ashore to Defend Dominion Outposts

Sea-Going Soldiers—With Uncle Sam preparing to establish naval and air bases in Newfoundland, Great Britain mans the bleak shores . . . the photo showing one boatload of troops being towed ashore from destroyers.

THE HEARST newspapers note with interest, and natural approval, that thousands of people assembled in Chicago the other day to hear the program of the newly formed America First Committee to keep the United States out of war.

GENERAL JOHNSON
Calls for Total Defense, Not Total Meddling

The Hearst newspapers have long believed that America should be FIRST in all things.

So firmly have they believed this, in fact, that Hearst papers have for many years incorporated the words, AMERICA FIRST, in their own names.

This has never been a mere slogan, but has served as a reminder to those who conduct the papers and as a pledge to those who buy and read them that the viewpoints taken and the policies espoused must always be solely in the interest of American happiness, security and peace.

The objectives of the new America First Committee seem to be exactly what the Hearst newspapers have so long pursued.

As General Hugh S. Johnson explained them in Chicago, these objectives are that the United States should keep out of the present European war, that it should provide an adequate national defense for itself and its possessions, and that it should not dissipate or deplete its armed forces by sending military equipment to nations now at war.

This is especially necessary, as General Johnson said, because:

"At this moment 500,000 English troops are equipped with American guns, yet the United States does not possess enough modern equipment to outfit 100,000 soldiers of its own."

We are sending warships to England, although we do not have enough ships to defend our own American coasts.

We are sending airplanes to England, although we are tragically weak in the air.

We will probably soon be sending vast stores of munitions and tanks and other materials of modern mechanized warfare to England, although our own recently mobilized troops conducted their practice maneuvers with makeshift and imaginary equipment—including beer cans for shells and trucks LABELLED as tanks.

FIRST OF ALL, of course, in our consideration should be American PEACE.

But how can America be first in anything, if it is always to be last in the allotment of ships, airplanes and munitions produced by our long-lagging but now expanding defense industries?

Why does our jittery and meddling New Deal Administration not also put AMERICA FIRST in its considerations?

It seems to believe the United States must inevitably be involved in foreign war, but has not PREPARED us for war—although it has appropriated and spent lavishly for defenses which have not materialized.

If the New Deal cannot make American PEACE its first objective, should not it at least put American PREPAREDNESS first?

Surely the American people "want total defense and are willing to pay the price to get it," as General Johnson believes.

But all they are getting from the New Deal Administraton is total meddling in and total provocation of a foreign war for which they are totally unprepared.

No wonder thousands of the American people are interested in the AMERICA FIRST program of the America First Committee.

HUSBAND-LESS VACATIONS are a new and interesting experiment in Rockingham County, N. H.

Having left their spouses and families to wrestle with the intricacies of keeping house, one hundred farm wives enjoyed a contented week at Hampton Beach.

Here, surely, is a paragraph for Columnist Durling, whose witty observations appear daily on this page. He could be trusted to cite a precedent for this feminine rebellion or give a helpful bit of advice.

As for ourselves, we think the Granite State women are wise and therefore applaud their venture.

The woman who works several hours a day in a kitchen, ought to have a change of scenery at least once a year.

Absence may not always make the heart grow fonder, but we are reasonably certain it will be beneficial in this instance.

Nothing causes a husband to appreciate his wife more quickly than a week of preparing meals and washing dishes.

"THE Government at Your Service," a book by Archie Robertson, details some of the things taxpayers can get free by writing to Washington. These include 12 folders on motherhood and a "Handbook of Sound Effects." The latter explains in detail how you can bark like a dog . . . Style news item says: "Despite bitter words from Westbrook Pegler and admonitions from Dorothy Thompson, women's hats go from mad to worse." . . . (Note—And if somebody changes that "mad" in the foregoing sentence to "bad," I'm going to be mad and I don't mean angry. However, I won't say anything, as it has long been this department's policy never to complain of a typographical error.) . . . A film company planned to produce a picture based on the life of U. S. Grant and then decided not to, as "the people in the South would not like it." If the North can stand for "Gone With the Wind," the South should be able to stand for a film about General Grant.

EVEr HEAR of "Car Washing Insurance?" Place in New Jersey agrees to do the job again free if it rains within 24 hours after your car has been washed . . . Have been informed there's a lipstick called "The Lady" and another called "The Hussy" . . . Why is it that turkey you get in a restaurant never seems to taste as good as the turkey you get at home? . . . Only 50 per cent marry for love, says an investigator of the matter. Other 50 per cent marry for children, social prestige, companionship, money, sympathy or understanding. What did you marry for, Lady? Well, it's none of my business, but I hope it came out as you expected . . . Now there's an affliction referred to as "Bridge Players Bulge."

IN THE MAIL I find an explanation of a game called "Donutty." It appears to be quite a quaint way of breaking that deadly silence. Guests are each handed a doughnut wrapped in cellophane. In addition to the doughnut, there is a card detailing the stunt the guest must do or forfeit a contribution to charity. Some "stunts" are: Push a doughnut across the room with your nose, eat doughnut suspended on a string from ceiling while standing on one leg, imitate a dog, happy, sad, angry and in love, and take off your shoes and bite both of your big toes at once. I would like to be at a Hollywood party where they played "Donutty." I think it would be rather interesting to see Katharine Hepburn trying to bite both her big toes at once.

MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 — I spent all day Tuesday in New York city. I planned to come to Washington in the early afternoon, but since my husband was away, I decided to take the midnight train down. The day was divided between such extremely feminine activities as having my hair washed, and seeing various gentlemen on a variety of subjects.

In the evening I went again to see Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt in: "There Shall Be No Night," and took with me several people who had not seen it before. Seeing this play for a second time, still is for me an exceptional experience.

All the discussions and thoughts on the situation of the past few months, seem to be crystalized and clarified by the type of acting which makes you live with the characters of the play, and by the writing which springs from a depth of understanding and faith which must help us all.

These are times to shake strong men's souls and those who can help us deserve our deepst gratitude.

I ARRIVED in Washington yesterday morning to find a most beautiful autumn day. It is a joy to be greeted by so many smiling faces. Even the White House itself is beginning to look more cheerful because the new white paint is making it shine, in spite of the places not yet touched which in comparison look extremely grimy.

I had an opportunity to talk over various household activities with Mrs. Nesbitt, the housekeeper, and with Mr. Crim, the head usher. Then Miss Charl Williams, of the National Education Association, came to see me.

She had a charming silver tray made and on it has had reproduced a letter written to her by the President in commemoration of her many years of service in the Democratic party. She was the first woman national vice chairman in our party.

She also told me of a delightful and interesting visit she had paid in Nassau to the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

Because of her interest in educational problems of the South, coming as she does from Tennessee, she thought of certain problems we might discover in connection with the countries where we acquire bases.

Of course, they will not be our problems, for we only administer to our own naval bases. But we will naturally know much more about many problems in these islands, which may have some bearing on conditions in our own country

HOPKINS TO QUIT WHITE HOUSE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—Harry Hopkins, long a tenant at the White House, will move his belongings from there. The ex-Secretary of Commerce will settle in New York City . . . Charles Michelson, publicity director for the Dem. Natl. Committee, has requested the broadcasting chains for free time in response to Willkie's campaign speech Monday night. Michelson's protest is based upon the fact that Roosevelt's Labor Day broadcast had been considered a political speech, and that it really wasn't . . . Because the ban on gambling will be removed in Mexico, after Cardenas' retirement, A. C. Blumenthal is remaining in Mexico City, trying to obtain from the new administration a franchise to reopen the famed and defunct Agua Caliente.

LINDA DARNELL

AVILA COMACHO, president-elect of Mexico, had emissaries approach the State Dept., before announcing his planned visit to the States. When the emissaries assured him that the State Dept. viewed his trip with favor, he decided to make the trip. He will arrive next week for a three-day visit to Washington and N. Y. C. . . . In the meantime his rival, General Almazan, will make no criticism of Avila Comacho's leaving the country before the inauguration. When I met Almazan in Balboa, C. Z., last month, he told of his plan to remain on American soil until the election results were announced. To the suggestion that this was a case of "out of sight out of shot" Almazan replied that it had no relation to his personal safety—"for, after all, Teddy Roosevelt made a long trip, too, before his inaugural."

WENDELL WILLKIE will broadcast for the transcribed radio show, "Famous Fathers." He will be interviewed by Howard Lindsay, star and co-author of "Life with Father" . . . Lepke has been assured that, despite murder indictments, etc., he'll serve his full term in Federal custody . . . The vocalist on the best selling Andy Kirk record of "What's Your Story, Morning Glory?" receives no billing. Actually, he's the first white singer to be heard with Kirk's band, because the conductor, after testing many singers, was dissatisfied with the rest. The anonymous singer is Jack Lawrence, who wrote that song as well as "Wind and the Rain in Your Hair."

LOUIS BROMFIELD, who wrote the "Brigham Young" movie, starring Linda Darnell, is adopting its communal theme for his large farm in Mansfield, Ohio. Under his supervision the neighboring farmers are pooling the use of all their equipment and will dispose of their produce on a co-operative basis. . . Jerry Lewis, the newspaper man, has been playing poker with his reporter colleagues for two years without ever winning. Last week Warner Bros. hired Lewis as a good will relations man for exploitation of the movie, "Knute Rockne, All-American." The good will man again played poker with the reporters he was expected to influence and won $26 from them.

OWEN DAVIS, the Pulitzer Prize playwright, closed his workshop at Ogonquit, Me., last week. On the last day he received a telegram from a Hollywood studio. It was delivered by telephone via Bangor, the nearest office . . . "I've got a telegram for you from Hollywood," said the Western Union manager in Bangor . . . "Read it to me." Davis told him, "and then send it over. But first read it to me" . . . The message was read, offering Davis $1000 a week to come to Hollywood and write a scenario . . . "As long as you're on the phone," said Davis, "you might as well wire them my reply. Just say: 'The answer is No.'" . . . "Okay," sighed the wire manager, "but I want to tell you—I think you're making a terrible mistake."

FRIENDS of Quentin Reynolds, worried about his presence in London during the raids, received a reassuring cable Monday from Christiansen, editor of the London Express. It read: "Quent just had another exciting experience—unhurt, except for dust in his brandy" . . . Chicago's Chez Paree is bidding for the Richman-Lewis-Tucker show which still is jamming the Riviera.

THE BUDS AND BLADES of the blue-book will be interested to know that "Amateur Night at the Ritz" (which sounds like a movie title), is in process of being effected . . . But the talent doesn't need pedigree papers to certify for a chance . . . A chance at what? . . . At a week's work ending Oct. 5, when the Ritz Roof closes for the season, with an emolument of $100.

WITH THE ENGAGEMENT comes a non-guaranteed but highly probable opportunity for the winners to have their work reviewed by prominent theatrical agents, and a movie scout or two . . . Of course, the Ritz management is planning on being quite choosy . . . Harmonica players, amateur magicians, impersonators of Charles Laughton and Jimmy Durante, or even Bohemian folk dancers need not apply.

OTHERS FROM ANY OR ALL ranks of society who have the show-business urge (and voices) may apply at once . . . A certain Mr. Ives is receiving applications, and to save wear and tear on the Ritz rugs and elevator boys, Mr. Ed Wyner's Mr. Ives is holding down an office at 162 Boylston st. . . . Tryouts will be held before the candidates are accepted for preliminary appearance on the Roof . . . Ruby Newman, the "society fave" (as Variety calls him), will assist in judging the tryouts, the preliminaries and the finals.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Hollywood is watching not only the gleam in Orson Welles' eyes these days but also his typewriter to discover whether his attentions to Dolores Del Rio are really serious . . . The accepted procedure for playwrights a-courting is to dream up a play when the object of their affections is an actress . . . (Perhaps that was the trouble with the Clifford Odets-Luise Rainer romance, Clifford, erstwhile "white hope of the playwrights" when the Pinkos owned a piece of the American stage, never wrote an opus for Luise.

AT ANY RATE ORSON, who is an all-around theatrical technician, could write and direct a vehicle for Dolores which might focus enough attention on her to shoot her back to stardom . . . This depends somewhat, however, on the verdict on "Citizen Kane," an Orson Welles picture that will make Hollywood history by merely becoming finished . . . The film is nearly ready for previewing. It was the Boy Genius's third start at getting some celluloid in, as Hollywood calls it, the "can."

REPORTER MARY SULLIVAN RELAYS a story from a woman in Nashua, N. H., who received it in a letter from her daughter, who (the daughter) resides in a town somewhere in England which we can call Throckmorton Downs . . . It's a pleasant little English village, and is bubbling currently with kids from the London slums . . . The daughter of the woman from Nashua overheard two of the town's young guests in a scrap of dialogue which went something like this:

"HOW DO YOU LIKE YOUR LODGIN'S?" asked one of the youngsters of his pal . . . "The lodgin's? . . . The lodgin's are all right, but it's this wash this, wash that, wash, wash, wash all the toime, that I don't like . . . First it's wash your ears, then [illegible] face and hands, and then be sure to wash the back of your neck . . . What do they take us for? . . . A lot of bloomin' ducks?"

THE RESPLENDENT NEW SOUTHLAND opens tonight . . . Mickey Redstone replies to our genial sally of yesterday with a tart retort that long before the Mickey Alpert "guest nights" (featuring stars from the theaters), The Mayfair under Benny Gaines did the same thing weekly . . . So be it . . . From "The Hurricane" comes a rush of communiques all bearing on the same subject, business . . . Joe Nardone's new West End oasis has had the ropes out since opening, the communiques say.

TWO STUDIOS SIGN IDA LUPINO

By Louella O. Parsons

Ida Lupino

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—If Ida Lupino isn't the leading femme star of next season it won't be because two of our biggest studios aren't giving her plenty of opportunity. Yes, I said two studios for today 20th Century-Fox made an agreement with Warners to share Ida's contract. And the little Lupino girl was doing supporting roles (and not too important ones at that) no less than six months ago.

Warners still have the inside track on the Lupino services having signed her for three pictures a year after "They Drive By Night." The 20th Century-Fox deal is for only one film a year—but Darryl Zanuck has not only agreed that the little Lupino will be starred above any other member of the cast but she also has the right to pass on scripts and select her own stories. Last time Ida was on that lot she didn't get billing at all with Richard Greene and Basil Rathbone in "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes."

ESTHER RALSTON

PARSONS JR. AND I were no more settled in our state at the Warwick after the smoothest air trip I've ever made, than news started pouring in. One of the first calls came from Esther Ralston who was a Hollywood glamour girl long before most of the present oomph queens were heard of. Esther, who is married to Ted Lloyd, New York radio writer, really had some news. After five years of retirement from stage and screen she had just received word that she was set to play Lillian Lorraine in "The Fan Alley" with Alice Faye and Betty Grable and she was flying to the coast immediately. It's only for one picture—but don't be surprised if it leads to a contract.

NEW YORK TALK. I understand now why Irving Berlin has had an offer from every company in the business for "Louisiana Purchase." It is the best musical comedy since those glorious Florenz Ziegfeld days. Zorina is so delightful. Irving told me that he leaves for the coast Sunday to talk over a motion picture deal. There was talk that because of Zorina, who is under contract to Samuel Goldwyn, "Louisiana Purchase" might be made by the Goldwyn company. Last night I heard that Paramount may talk business with Irving. He and his wife Ellen were at the Stork Club. Ran into Willie Wyler both at "21" and the Stork Club where he was having late supper with Lillian Hellman, author of "Little Foxes." Willie joined the Samuel Goldwyn party in Fort Worth for the premiere of his picture "The Westerner." I understand he is coming back to meet Bette Davis who returns here Sunday. Together they will see "The Little Foxes" in Cleveland, which Betty will make for Sam if Goldwyn after she finishes "January Heroine." Willie's bride, Margaret Tallichet, who is in Texas visiting relatives, will also attend the Goldwyn shindig.

DEB PARTIES take every form imaginable nowadays . . . and the latest is in direct contrast to the usual idea of candlelight and silver, champagne and caviar . . . Lucy Twitchell's party next Wednesday will be a good old fashioned clambake on the sandy beach in front of her parents' summer home at Beverly Farms . . .

Harvard boys are lucky . . . This is the first party on their calendar when they return to college next week . . . It will give them an opportunity to meet many of the new season's debs in the easy informality of an outdoor party, and few boys (I suppose we should say men) would overlook the opportunity of a good meal of clams, lobster and roast corn . . .

After the embers of the big beach bonfires die down the youthful guests will continue the evening's festivities at the barn dance which Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cummings are giving for two other debs, Deborah Law and Mary Remsen . . . There they will join the older folks who are to be entertained beforehand at a large dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Mandell of Wenham . . . The Cummings' barn at Prides Crossing will be festooned with Japanese lanterns and autumn leaves . . .

Lucy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Lowell Putnam, and her two sister debs who are making their debuts the same evening are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Law of Brookline, and Mr. and Mrs. R. McAllister Lloyd who are coming over from New York for the festivities . . .

Notes From a Society Editor's Cuff

NOT CONTENT with all play and no work, post deb Betsy Cabot has entered upon a busy and interesting career by joining the staff of the British Consulate in Boston . . . Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cabot of Jamaica Plain, she graduated from Radcliffe last June . . .

The Clipper brings mail about every ten days to Mr. and Mrs. E. Everett Rice of Jamaica Plain from their daughter the former Astrid Rice, whose home is in Norway . . . For some months after the invasion Mr. and Mrs. Rice received no word of Astrid's whereabouts . . . but now are happy to report that she and her husband, Capt. Carsten Helgeby, and their small sons are all reunited at their home in Oslo . . .

The Rudolph Welds of Brookline have been joined by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Grosjean, of Brussels, Belgium, who recently arrived in New York . . . Mrs. Grosjean, the former Priscilla Weld, was in Belgium with her husband and his family at the time of the invasion of the low countries, and it was some time before her parents had word of her whereabouts . . .

Serve Eggs In Novel Ways

By MARTHA LEE

Those who carefully study the nutritive values of foods in relation to their costs have learned that some types are much more economical than others. Some foods are important for only one or two of the nutrients the body needs, while others are important sources of several.

Fresh eggs, because of their many important nutrients and valuable vitamins are classed close to the top of the list of essential protective foods, and in relation to their cost are one of the most economical foods the homemaker can buy.

Because eggs are so familiar we seldom stop to check on their nutritional value which includes protein for building new body tissues and replacing old, fats to provide fuel and release energy from starch and sugar, iron to make red corpuscles, phosphorus for bone and teeth structure, and calcium needed for bones and teeth, and proper functioning of the body.

In addition, eggs are an excellent source of vitamins A and G, and a good source of vitamins B and D. So to be sure of an adequate diet, serve fresh eggs often, and serve them right.

BACON, NOODLES AND EGGS

¾-lb. pkg. noodles
¾-lb. sliced bacon
4 fresh eggs
2 tbsp. milk
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. white pepper

Use broad noodles, and cook them in boiling salted water until tender, place in a strainer, wash with cold water and drain. Cut the bacon into ½-inch pieces and fry slowly. When bacon is crisp, pour off most of the fat, add seasoning and eggs, beaten with the milk, and the noodles. Scramble together as you prepare scrambled eggs. A good main dish for luncheon.

EGGS SICILIAN

6 slices bread
6 slices dried beef
6 fresh eggs
¾ tsp. salt

Cut bread in circles; fit a piece of dried beef on each circle. Separate egg yolks from whites, putting each yolk into a separate cup. Add salt to egg whites, beat until stiff. Pile beaten whites on each circle of bread and beef, making a well in the center. Drop a whole yolk into each. Place on a baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven (325 deg. F.) 15 to 20 minutes, or until set and slightly brown.

SCRAMBLED EGGS IN POPOVER SHELLS

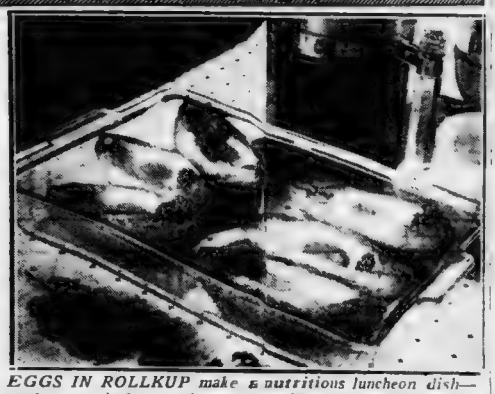
Make and bake 4 large popovers. Meanwhile fry 1-3 cup diced bacon until crisp. Scramble 6 fresh eggs; fold in the bacon. Slit popovers lengthwise, fill with scrambled eggs and serve for Sunday breakfast.

In place of the popovers, sometime, make a good pancake batter, and fry pancakes about 4 inches in diameter. Put a tablespoon of the scrambled eggs on each pancake, fold over the pancake and serve with tiny sausages cooked crisp.

EGGS IN ROLLKUP

6 poppy seed rolls
3 tbsp. butter, melted
6 fresh eggs
½ tsp. salt
Pepper

Cut the center from the bottom of each roll and remove enough of the soft center to hold one egg. Brush the roll, inside and outside, with butter. Break a strictly fresh egg in each rollkup. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and place in a 2-quart heat resistant glass utility dish and bake in a moderate over (375 deg. F.) for 15 minutes, or until the egg is set. Serve immediately from their own baking dish.



EGGS IN ROLLKUP make a nutritious luncheon dish—and economical, too, when we consider the cost in relation to the food value.

By ELSIE ROBINSON

HOW'D you like to get away from it all? Turn your back for keeps on the expensive fuss and frills, the fear and speed and pressure, the waste and bills, and wander off with only a few dollars, to make a fresh start in some quiet little village up some sunny little cove?

How'd you like to discover a dingy, tumble-down shack, half sunk in weeds, and gradually put it in shape, knocking down partitions, nailing up shelves, opening window and door to wind and sea and sun, feeling blood beginning to bubble in your tired flesh?

Would be grand, wouldn't it?

DAIN and the man she loved didn't merely cherish that dream, they went out and turned it into reality. Like many typical moderns, life had turned into a blind alley for both of them. Then, in a back water, off the Cornish coast, he found a deserted neglected shack which he could rent for a pittance a week.

Could they possibly make a home of such mean beginnings? Yet they had to take a chance, somewhere. Thousands — millions — broken by the hopeless fear and futility of modern life were taking such chances, making good. Why shouldn't they? So he sent for her.

Leo Walmsley's book, "Love in the Sun," Doubleday Doran, publishers, tells the story of what came of that gamble. And lustier medicine for what ails America I have yet to meet.

Here is all the courage of our pioneers coupled with the gaiety and ingenuity of our moderns. Here is triumph over the monotony, mediocrity and deadly menace of the Machine Age.

Planks picked from the tide wrack. Scraps of canvas. Secondhand tools and pipes, chance bits of roofing. Whitewash, paint, pumice, and elbow grease. Of these they built their home and eager happiness.

Eager? How long is it since you felt eager about anything? How long is it since you felt curious, excited, childishly enthusiastic?"

"LOVE IN THE SUN," life as it was meant to be, with or without machines. Read this for the saving of your soul. A finer, more zestful book has yet to make the market.

You Can Be Beautiful

New Make-Up Disguises Tired, Shadowed Look

By ARLINE GOULD

ALTHOUGH the purpose of a marvelous new "custom blended" make-up foundation is to give your complexion an exquisite patina . . . there is more to it than that. You can actually disguise the tired, shadowed look around the eyes with a thin, blending film of it . . . you can film-over a network of tiny lines . . . and look as fresh as a pond lily.

Usually complexion-finishes are limited in the number of shades . . . but that's the marvel of this new "chromablend" foundation . . . there can be as many tints as there are pretty girls in Hollywood . . . and yours is your own, card-indexed, to be changed as your complexion varies through the seasons! It is blended for you, for your daytime, night time or outdoor face. And only $1 for a generous size.

You'll find another extraordinary quality in this chromablend cream . . . it is a delightful, evanescent texture between a whipped, frothy cream and a misty liquid. And it smooths on your face ever so gently, with no necessity for rubbing.

Chromablend cream has the power to subdue aging shadows, to change the tint of your complexion, and to deflect harsh light so the contours of your face are softened . . . because it is wizardry in color. In making it, a number of intense shades are blended together . . . and the extraordinary things it does are particularly pointed in the evening. Add a touch of orchid, and your skin assumes a creamy, fine transparency that seems fairly luminous.

Sallow skin may be turned to exquisitely flushed beauty . . . ruddiness can be made to look normally fresh. The color expert in charge of the blending will show you some astounding complexion-glamour-izing tricks.

If you'd like to learn about this brand new "chromablend" make-up foundation, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Record, Boston, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Woman Who Lived in Hitler's House

The Story So Far:

PAULINE KOHLER, a young bride, was imprisoned by the German Gestapo because she unwisely voiced her opinion of Chancellor Hitler and the Nazi regime.

After a few weeks in the greatly feared Dachau concentration camp, she won the support of important officials through her beauty and tact.

Soon she found work in the household of a party leader, who lavished kindness on her. But his wife became suspicious and jealous.

Again jobless, Fraulein Kohler, once more through the intercession of influencial persons, won recommendation for a vacancy in Hitler's household staff. No less an authority than Gestapo Chief Himmler lent his approval.

Daily, in the Boston Evening American, she now relates her experiences and discoveries.

Life in the Fuehrer's Berghof she has pictured as a mixture, unsuspected by the German people, of piratical luxury, rigid discipline, medieval astrology, ultra-modern precautions against assassination, and perverse cruelty.

She has described Hitler's ways in everyday life: his meatless diet, his craving for sweets, his insomnia and strange "cures," the bullet-proof vest he wears, and his fondness for reading about such pioneer builders of the British Empire as Drake and Clive.

Tuesday, on authority of Hitler's assistant housekeeper, Elsa Holzfuhn, she disclosed that the Fuehrer has a weak heart and that a surgeon has removed one of his vocal cords, which was cancerous, and replaced it with tissue from his own body.

Yesterday, she explained the mystery of Hitler's three doubles," one of whom was wounded by a deceived would-be assassin.

She also said she had once rashly pocketed a scrap of waste paper on which Hitler had scribbled. In consequence, she found herself utterly in the power and at the mercy of a brutal Gestapo lieutenant, Gregor Hausmann, who summoned her to his room late at night.

The story is published without opportunity for confirmation, for what the author purports it to be.

CHANCELLOR SCHUSCHNIGG

"Every time he tried to speak Hitler's voice rose to a scream and silenced him."

Now Continue:

By PAULINE KOHLER

DECENCY forbids me to record the bestiality of Herr Hausmann and the things he compelled me to do during those six months.

After six months he was called away from Berchtesgaden and he never returned, to my unbounded delight.

He was replaced by a much younger and pleasanter man, Captain Rinz, who was never anything but charming to all of us.

After all, the Gestapo men felt themselves to be rather above having domestics as friends. They were allowed to bring their own women to the Berghof. And their taste usually ran to actresses from Munich or Berlin or to the wives and daughters of the upper classes who were seeking their favors.

Pauline Kohler

Of course there were real affairs among the domestics. Two of my friends, Greta Fursch and Karen Pfeifer, were friendly with two of the gardeners. They were all very much in love. Even Schlieben, whom I regarded as an old man, carried on a romance with one of the girls who seemed genuinely to have an affection for him, though how anyone could love a man with a face like his patched-up one I could never imagine.

NO RADIOS!

I have not mentioned one unusual fact about life at the Berghof. There are no wireless sets. That is, for the use of the staff. Hitler has two powerful sets, each capable of receiving any station in the world.

There are also sets in the Gestapo offices—and a transmitter.

But the use of radio sets by servants or staff for private pleasure is not allowed.

We were not even permitted to hear the German stations on the special people's set with its limited reception powers.

I do not know the reason for this rule but I was told that it was to keep us in ignorance of events outside in case we ever panicked in the event of a crisis like an armed rising and might be tempted to help the rebels from inside.

It seemed a poor reason to me but there is the fact.

Because of this we were allowed to get up shows of our own or occasionally to be visited by a sort of concert party or a team of actors performing popular plays.

These shows always took place in the big recreation room which was fitted with a proper stage.

We had great fun in producing shows, and I found that I had a talent for singing. I nearly always had an important part in every show we did ourselves.

The Gestapo men, the Storm Troopers and the outside staff as well as the servants were allowed to attend or to take part.

Goering watched the performances several times and once Hitler himself paid us a surprise visit, much to the confusion of some of the cast who forgot their lines on the stage and had to be prompted in loud whispers which made everyone, including Hitler, roar with laughter.

HITLER APPROVES

I was quite cool, however, and I was afterwards complimented by the Fuehrer on my singing. I was tremendously pleased and I was the envy of everybody in the show.

I think it was not so much my voice as the song I sang that pleased the Fuehrer. It was "Vilia," from the Merry Widow and one of Hitler's favorite songs.

Ever afterwards I was the star of the shows we put on, except when a play was performed, which was not often.

Of course, we enjoyed the professional players shows, too.

Our favorite was Viktor Stubl, the Berlin comedian, who brought several shows to Berchtesgaden before he was banned from the stage by Goebbels for making jokes in a Berlin night-club about the regime.

We never saw him after that. I believe he was actually sent to a concentration camp.

I became quite wealthy after two years as Hitler's maid.

For one thing the salary was very high for a domestic servant, and for another, it was quite impossible to spend it all. Our uniforms were provided, of course, as were stockings and shoes, and even meals were.

We made various little personal economies which we had to put on a list once a month to be fetched from shops in town by Gestapo men when they drove in.

We had to contribute ten per cent of our earnings to the Nazi Party and we had to subscribe generously to the Winter Relief Fund and to other Party-organized "charities."

Still, I found that I had 3000 marks saved up which was more money than I had ever seen in my life.

I had no idea what to do with it. I often wondered whether I should ever get out of Berchtesgaden before the Nazi regime cracked and disappeared as I knew in my heart it would one day. I weighed up my chances of escape in the event of, say, revolution.

Would anyone believe I was anything but a Nazi?

Worse, would Berchtesgaden be left standing, or would it be bombed and shelled with a Hitler, defiant to the end, dead among its ruins along with his staff?

I often dreamed of escaping to England or to America. It seemed impossible that I should get away.

I had only seen two changes on the staff since I had been at the Berghof. Both were girls who had been dismissed and sent to a concentration-camp. They were replaced.

I wondered if anyone could leave in the normal way and get back to normal life if one schemed a little. I asked Schlieben about this. But he only asked in return: "Are you not satisfied to serve the Fuehrer, Frauline?"

I hurriedly affirmed my loyalty and stopped asking questions. But the idea remained in my mind and I became more and more determined to make an effort to get away without, of course, risking Dachau again.

It was many, many months before I found out how to do it.

SELDOM ALONE

There were always visitors coming and going. I saw most of them. Some were old friends of Hitler's, now given a minor rank in the Nazi hierarchy, others were world-famous figures. There was never a day without someone.

For Hitler detests being alone, except for the few hours he spends in his retreat on Mount Kehlstein or dabbling in the occult.

He must have people around him provided, of course, that they agree with him and are prepared to listen to his tirades.

There is one visitor I shall never forget. I doubt if the outside world will ever be allowed to see him again.

I am speaking of Schuschnigg, the Chancellor of Austria. He came and went away a broken, beaten man.

It was in January 1938 that I first realized that Hitler meant to invade Austria. On January 26 the Austrian police raided an office in the Teinfaltstrasse in Vienna.

There they found a document signed "R. H." In great detail it outlined a plan by which the Nazis hoped to conquer Austria. Austrian Nazis, helped by their German comrades, were to stir up trouble throughout Austria.

There were to be riots and demonstrations and, after a few days, the German Reichswehr were to cross the frontier to "restore order."

But the moment this plan was discovered all the Nazi leaders in Austria were arrested.

I knew something was in the wind on the morning of Jan. 27. Cars kept arriving at Berchtesgaden every few minutes. Hess arrived, looking shaken, for the initials "R. H" were his.

Hitler held conference all that day and far into the early hours of the next morning.

Naturally I heard nothing of what was decided. But I soon saw. For on Feb. 6, von Papen, Nazi ambassador to Vienna, arrived at Berchtesgaden and saw Hitler at once.

He departed for Vienna as the bearer of an invitation to Schuschnigg to come immediately to Berchtesgaden to confer with Hitler. And on Feb. 11 Schuschnigg arrived.

The next few days had been great days for Hitler. A crowd of important people were coming and going at the Berghof.

The map room of Hitler's study was given special attention. I know because I was asked to dust it all day.

Most of the furniture was removed, and a map table placed in the center of the floor.

On it was spread a large scale map of Austria and southern Germany. Blood-red arrows were inked on it showing the route German troops would take if they invaded Austria.

A model of a German bomber, complete in every detail, stood on a side table. A diagram of it hung on the wall.

It was made of pictures of the devastation caused by bombs in Guernica in Barcelona and in Madrid.

Schuschnigg was met by no guard of honor. Two extremely tough looking S. S. men were his interpreters.

They informed him bluntly that they had orders to watch him every minute. Why, I do not know. Perhaps the Fuehrer's jealous.

Schuschnigg protested but decided it would be wiser to submit. He was then taken into this map room and left there alone.

He was there for over an hour with an armed guard standing outside the door.

BRAZENLY INSULTED

Then without warning or announcement several Austrians burst into the room. They were prominent members of the Austrian Nazi Party who had escaped to Germany. Their object was to insult the Chancellor.

They did not disappoint and it was, I gather, a real treat to listen to them. In seven minutes that is what they said and what Hitler's said.

He did not. And the four or five Nazis were standing before the fire. Round him were Goering, von Reichenau, the Nazi army commander in Leipzig, Gen. Keitel (then instantly promoted to be head of the German army) and Gen. Sperrle, the Air Force commander of Munich. Four men "arrested" by the S. S. stood in recesses of the room with drawn revolvers.

I can't say I was not interested in my knowledge of what happened during this final interview.

So you've come," snapped Hitler. "Sit down."

Startled by the abruptness of this greeting, Schuschnigg dropped into a chair, pulled out his cigarette case and prepared to light a cigarette.

"Put that away," ordered Hitler. "The matter you are here about is too serious for smoking."

And throughout the hours of the interview which followed, the Austrian Chancellor, a very heavy smoker, was not allowed a single cigarette.

Hitler burst into one of his tirades. "Austria must be free," he shouted. "It is a German state. Providence has made me leader of the Reich leader of all Germans. I am destined to drag Austria from the chaos in which she now finds herself. And you Herr Von Schuschnigg imagine you can check my will and the will of Austria to return to the Reich. You are mistaken. Tell him what is to happen if he remains obstinate."

He turned to his military chiefs. In cold, determined voices they spoke of the German divisions waiting on the Austrian frontier and of the 200 bombers waiting to take off for Vienna.

"We can," they said, "either take control of Austria without violence or with violence. If you, as Chancellor, choose violence Vienna will be razed to the ground. The choice is yours."

When they had finished, lunch was served. Hitler grew more human. He spoke to Schuschnigg in an almost friendly tone but that did not last long.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

FALSE TEETH

With Little Worry

Eat talk laugh or sneeze without fear of insecure false teeth dropping, slipping or wabbling. FASTEETH holds plates firmer and more comfortably. This pleasant powder has no gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Doesn't cause nausea. It's alkaline (non-acid). Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

The QUIZZICAL CAMERA MAN

Every day the Quizzical Camera Man trots around Boston armed with five different questions. He asks each question of as many people as necessary until he gets the right answer. To each person answering a question correctly he hands out a crisp new ten-dollar bill. Maybe he'll be in your neighborhood tomorrow. He gives away

$50.00 EVERY DAY!

Question No. 1—What appears on the other side of a Buffalo nickel?

Suggested Answers:

(a) The Statue of Liberty
(b) A Shetland Pony
(c) A Pretty Girl
(d) An Indian

Harry Steward

This question wasked on Boston Common. Harry Stewart of Hillside Rd., Somerville, a student, was the first person questioned. He picked answer "D" which is correct. His reward was a crisp, new ten-dollar bill.

Question No. 2—Who are the "White Sox"?

Mary McKenna

Suggested Answers:

(a) Montana Vigilantes
(b) A dancing team
(c) A baseball team
(d) Tight-rope walkers

This question was put to Mary McKenna of St. Charles St., Boston, an unemployed office typist. She picked answer "C" and received a new ten-dollar bill.

Question No. 3—What does the term "bottled in bond" mean in reference to liquor?

Suggested Answers:

(a) Contains more than 25% alcohol
(b) Bottled under Government supervision
(c) Bottled in Bond Street, London
(d) Aged for ten years

Matthew Davis

The quizzical camera man moved to Park Square to pop this question. Matthew Davis, a taxi driver, living on Hamilton St., West Roxbury, picked answer "B" after two others had failed. Mr. Davis went home ten dollars richer.

Question No. 4—Of what organization is John L. Lewis the head?

Mrs. Sudhalter

Suggested Answers:

(a) C. I. O.
(b) A. F. of L.
(c) Committee for International Organization
(d) Knights of Labor

The quizzical camera man had to ask one person only for the correct answer. Her name was Mrs. Francis Sudhalter of Downing Ave., Haverhill, a housewife, who quickly picked answer "A". The ten dollars is now in her possession.

Question No. 5—What colors combine to make green?

Suggested Answers:

(a) Blue and red
(b) Pink and purple
(c) Red and yellow
(d) Yellow and blue

Mrs. Hunt

Mrs. Harold Hunt, housewife, of Severance St., Lynn, checked "D", the correct answer, after two other women had failed. She got ten dollars for knowing her colors.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2—Bids and Proposals

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS
COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
METROPOLITAN DISTRICT WATER SUPPLY COMMISSION

FWA Docket No. Mass. 5151-F
Mass. State Project 525S. Item G

Sealed proposals, prepared on the prescribed form and in accordance with the instructions therein will be received at the office of the Metropolitan District Water Supply Commission, 20 Somerset Street, Boston, Massachusetts, until 10 A. M., Eastern Standard Time, October 17, 1940, and then at said office publicly opened and read aloud for Contract 369, for furnishing and installing a radio system in the towns of Ware, Belchertown, Petersham, Barre, Clinton and Southborough, Massachusetts. This work consists of furnishing and installing radio equipment at the Utility Building on Quabbin Hill in Ware, at the Administration Buildings in Belchertown, at the Fire Station in Petersham, at the Shaft 8 Service Building of the Quabbin Aqueduct in Barre, at the Sta. Bodine and the Wachusett Dam Tower House in Clinton, and at the Sudbury Dam Power House in Southborough, Massachusetts. This work also consists of furnishing and installing radio equipment for automobiles and boats. Each proposal must be accompanied by a deposit of security in the amount of at least five per cent of the total bid price. A bond in at least the full amount of the contract will be required of the successful bidder to secure the faithful performance of the contract, and for the payment of all persons performing labor or furnishing materials in connection therewith. Special attention is called to the requirements as to conditions of employment to be observed and to the minimum rates of wages prescribed under the provisions of Chapter 462, Acts of 1935, by the State Commissioner of Labor and Industries, for the construction of this public work. A schedule of such rates is incorporated in the contract documents and on bid forms may be obtained at the office of the Metropolitan District Water Supply Commission. The information for bidders, form of proposal, form of contract, plans, specifications and forms of bid bond and performance bond may be examined at the above address, and copies thereof obtained from Karl R. Kennison, Chief Engineer of the Commission upon the deposit of $10, to be refunded only to bidders or to others returning them to or before October 28, 1940. The site of the work may be seen by applying at the office of the Chief Engineer, 20 Somerset street, Boston, Massachusetts. The Commonwealth reserves the right to waive any informality in or to reject any or all proposals. No bidder may withdraw his bid within thirty days after the actual date of the opening thereof.

BOWDOIN ELEVEN UP TO WALSH STANDARD

By AUSTEN LAKE

BRUNSWICK, Me., Sept. 19—There is something in the atmosphere of this old town which suggests the cool and quiet fragrance of a cider cellar, the memorable whiffs of Aunt Sally's cookie crock, maidenhair ferns and the social dignities of the Civil War. For Brunswick is time-steeped. The town is drowsy and seems to look back through the corridor of its years. (A bronze plaque says, "In this house Henry W. Longfellow wrote 'Thanatopsis.'" Another reads, "Grover Cleveland resided here.")

Baby Bees

Life sprawls around Bowdoin College like the white of a fried egg surrounds its yolk. The town, with its irregular line of low-roofed stores, its undulating pavements, its leaf-strewn common, its lazy clock-chimes, its unhurried citizenry, is waiting! For what? For the return of the students and the renewed bustle of slack-pantalooned, rakish-jacketed and hatless youths—like an old Grandfather might itch for the homecoming of family kids from summer camp.

A few are here—an even four dozen of Bowdoin's football squad, kids who rattle around the deserted campus, dine thrio daily in the Union, dress in a tapestry-brick field house, and g galloping over golf-green fields which are bordered by a pin cedar and maple wilderness. There are partridge there al furry things of the wood. Over yonder farmers are filling the silos, and cows brood above the philosophical waggle of the cuds.

Adam Walsh, a coppery blond, bristle-browed, lynx-ed man, is the football personality here! For Adam (strong name) is in his sixth year as football coach and has become a semi-tradition—as much a fixture in the college as the big, granite polar bear which stands before the athletic office.

Adam coaches, Adam counsels distraught youth, Adam moves on a level with boyhood and the higher plane of the faculty. For this is Adam's Eden—the spot where the coaching competence of the old captain of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen, is braided tightly with college contentment. In the five years since he moved up here from a Harvard assistancy, his teams have won three Maine championships, tied in two others and won 26 games while losing only six.

At first glance you'd say that Bowdoin was struck full in the kisser with last June's lightning. It lost its first and second right ends, right tackles, center, left guards, first left tackle, quarterback, left halfback, third left half and second right half. Put together that sounds as though it spells "Mamma." But it doesn't! Walsh has an experienced letter-man at every position. Mostly Greater Boston boys. Adam is that kind of forehanded cuss!

HOWIE FROM CAMBRIDGE

His team which ran through formations (naturally he uses the old Rockne stuff, "with variations") was ordered as follows: Art Benoit (father runs a string of clothing stores through Maine; "It's distinctive to deal at Benoit's") and Pete Howie (Cambridge; summer conductor on the Mt. Washington cog railway) at the ends. The tackles were Butch Toney (Needham; saw the N. Y. World's Fair with a broom and shovel last summer) and Tom Steele (Melrose; will probably work as a defensiveenter) at the tackles.

Then Jack Banks (transferom Virginia M. I. in '38) or Orge Smith (Woburn; brother ofbwdoins recent Bobby) and Ank Sabasteanski (one of 11 chuen; mobile and intelligent—"I'llive him a lot of latitude on defe"—Walsh) at the guards. And lally, Sonny Austin (who is Dan to Sabasteanski's Pythias and repping for medical school) wilternate with Tack Webster.

As we watched and talt a short man with a Wizard f Oz countenance and a uniformearing the stripes of a regimentsergeant-major approached - the father of Bob Marchildon, as an ordinance non-com from Augsta. He was tenderly proud of th kid

Sox May Call on Rookies As Money Chance Fades

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19 The only pitcher who seems sure of a job with the Red Sox next season—goes to the mound at 5 p. m. Boston time) today against a Red Sox cast-off, Elden Auker, in the second game of the series with the Browns.

Eight games back of first place, three games back of fourth with only 11 to go, the Sox might just as well gamble on kids from here in because they're bound to finish out of the money anyway.

One youngster who should get a thorough test is Ulysses Lupien, aggressive first sacker from Little Rock, who looks like a slashing left-handed hitter.

Lupien is a Massachusetts boy who captained the 1939 team at Harvard and who led the Ivy League in hitting with a mark approximating .500. He batted .321 at Scranton after graduation last year and has had a fine season in the dusty, broiling Arkansas town this season.

His proved he could hit big league pitching down south last spring, and when he batted for Lefty Grove in the first game of the series here—which the Sox lost 11-2—he came through with a resonant double, one of the nine hits the Sox got off Bob Harris.

The Browns combed Grove for five hits and three runs in the two innings he worked, and the Sox were never in the game thereafter. The usual procession of Dickman, Ostermueller and Galehouse followed the ancient left-hander to the hill.

Jenkins Defends Ring Title Nov. 22

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (INS)—Lew Jenkins of Texas will defend his lightweight crown in Madison Square Garden on Nov. 22, Promoter Mike Jacobs announced today. His opponent will be the survivor of fighting between Pete Lello, Irving Eldridge and aveD Castilloux, according to Jacobs.

BABY BEES DRILL AT HIVE

Baseball takes two days off in Boston. "No game" sign is posted at National League Field for today and tomorrow.

But Casey Stengel isn't disappointed, for the freak in the schedule gives him a chance to get a look at the prize rookies who have been sent to him on the O. K. of his scouts and managers of the Bees farms.

Stengel can well enjoy this season with his rookies, for h's regulars just finished giving Frankie Frisch's Buccaneers a diamond lesson in two straight defeats.

Former Pirate, Jim Tobin, Chet Ross and Gene Moore divided the lectures among themselves and the final score was Bees 4, Pirates 1.

Tobin taught the course of "Masterful Pitching"; Ross gave his version of "Hickory Against Horsehide," while Moore demonstrated "Catching Them Everywhere."

The passing of the Bucs also brought to the close the visits of the Western clubs in Boston this year

Bill Terry will lead his fumbling Giants into town for a single game on Saturday and a twin bill on Sunday

Cleveland, Tigers In 'Duel to Death'

By the Associated Press

While the American League has been muddling around for two weeks like so many rabbits in a pen, the Cincinnati Reds have copped their second straight National League pennant with an impressive display of decision and dispatch.

Their 4-3 triumph in 13 innings over the Phillies yesterday was their 16th victory in 18 games. A blustering finish that may have an important bearing on the World Series.

It used to be the other way around. The American Leaguers would show up early with a great show of invincibility and pounce upon their prey when the National League delegate finally arrived all out of breath. The Reds didn't slave off the rush of the St. Louis Cardinals last year until September 28, three days before the season closed, and they practically collapsed into the pit the Yankees had waiting.

CRUCIAL SERIES TOMORROW

But now it is the American League that is locked in a death struggle. The Cleveland Indians were so desperate yesterday they called out Bobby Feller with two days' rest to face the seventh place Washington Senators. The strategy worked and the Tribe triumphed in both ends of a double-header, 3-1 and 2-1, to regain first place. But it might boomerang when the Indians open a three game series with Detroit tomorrow.

The Philadelphia Athletics, the same tag-alongs who knocked Cleveland off the top perch Tuesday, scored nine runs in the second game of their double bill at Detroit yesterday to get a sash and force the Tigers out of the lead. With the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox dividing their double feature, the standings are:

Club	W.	L.	Pct.	G.B.	To Play
Cleveland	84	61	.579	—	9
Detroit	83	61	.576	½	10
New York	79	64	.552	4	11
Chicago	79	66	.545	5	9

The tragedy of the Tigers was that they won their first game from the A's, 14-0, and weren't able to save any of this margin for the second session. In the first game, Tommy Bridges went so well he was pulled out in the seventh to rest for Cleveland.

Flynn's Net Tour Aids British Relief

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 19 (INS)—Errol Flynn, swashbuckling screen hero, today announced he will leave for a national tennis exhibition tour next month under the auspices of the British Relief Association.

The star will open in San Francisco to be followed by exhibition games in several cities including New York and Boston.

Fighters' Purses Go to Red Cross

MONTREAL, Sept. 19 (INS)—Canada's Red Cross fund today was enriched by the purses of fighters Natie Brown, Washington, Mickey McAvoy, New York, and George Leslie, Canada, all ordered confiscated by the Montreal Athletic Commission. All three were badly beaten in a recent program.

'Tunes' for Football

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—Ken Roskie, husky University of South Carolina sophomore fullback from Rockford, Ill., warms up for football by playing the piano. He says he plays a "tune or two to loosen up my fingers and co-ordinate my arms and legs." He has been playing the piano for ten years, with a pipe organ thrown in now and then.

B. C. HIT HARD BY DAVIS' LOSS

Now that Fullback Frank Davis has departed from the scene the Boston College grid squad will open its season on Saturday at Alumni Field against Centre with a raw rookie at the important post of plunging back. Davis, who resigned to devote more time to his studies, will be replaced in the starting backfield by Mike "Who May Soon Be Mighty" Holovak, a sophomore of much promise but little experience.

The loss of Davis, a fancy stepping junior, who was considered one of the finest fullback prospects ever to matriculate at the Heights, is admittedly a severe one. Head Coach Frank Leahy, never one to spout enthusiasm once the grid season starts, is most upset.

"Davis was our first string fullback, the only experienced one on the squad," says Leahy. "Obviously we'll miss him. However, since Frank feels that he needs more time for study the decision is perfectly all right with the coaching staff."

The loss of Davis left Leahy's only worry as he goes about the task of whipping his squad into shape for the opener Saturday and a consequent clash with Tulane's Green Wave at New Orleans the following week.

1200 Students Cheer Eagles

Close to 1200 students gathered at Alumni Field this morning to rally the Boston College football team to a victory in its opening game of the season Saturday against Centre College's Colonels from Kentucky.

Rev. Father Maurice Dullea, S. J., faculty director of athletics; Rev. Father James L. McGovern, S. J., Assistant Coaches Johnny Druze and Ed McKeever, players Charlie O'Rourke and Lou Montgomery were speakers.

Baker Starts Rookie Pitcher Against Macks

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 19—Manager Del Baker of the Tigers sprang a surprise when he sent Floyd Giebell, 25-year-old recruit right-handed pitcher from the Buffalo club, to the mound here today in the first game of a doubleheader with the Athletics. Giebell won 15 games and lost 16 with the Bisons. Chubby Dean was on the hill for Philadelphia.

Giebell pitched a few games for the Tigers last year before and after a hitch with Toledo, then a Detroit farm. He hails from Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Tigers went into the game one-half game behind the Indians, who were scheduled for one game with the Washington Senators in Cleveland this afternoon.

FIRST GAME
FIRST INNING

ATHLETICS — Miles flied to Greenberg. S. Chapman hit a home-run into the upper deck of left field stands. Johnson walked. Hayes flied to McCosky. Siebert grounded to York. ONE RUN.

TIGERS — Bartell flied to S Chapman. McCosky was safe when Siebert muffed McCoys throw Gehringer flied to S. Chapman. Greenberg walked. York doubled scoring McCosky and Greenberg. Higgins flied to Miles. TWO RUNS

SECOND INNING

ATHLETIS—Rubeling was called out on strikes. Gehringer went in to short right field for McCoy's pop fly. F. Chapman flied to Greenberg. NO RUNS.

TIGERS—Dean tosed out Foxx. Rubeling threw out Tebbetts. Giebell popped to Rubeling. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING

ATHLETICS—Dean popped to Gehringer. Miles flied to McCosky in short center. S. Chapman walked. Johnson forced S. Chapman, Bartell to Gehringer. NO RUNS.

M'CARTHY HEAPS PRAISE ON DYKES

By EDWARD W. COCHRANE
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (INS)—"Looks like Detroit . . . great ball club, Detroit . . . Cleveland has a great pitcher . . . What a team needs to win a pennant . . . May be a dogfight right down to the last game between those two . . . What a race."

Marse Joe McCarthy was talking . . . seated on the Yankee bench yesterday before the twin bill started . . . solemnly, a sad expression in his eyes, like a man who had been through the Battle of Dunkirk or just escaped from a building shattered by a bomb.

"You know," said Marse Joe, who won four straight pennants and world's series for New York, setting an all-time record, "they talk about luck, good and bad. But do you know the club that should win this pennant this year? Don't answer. I'll tell you. Chicago.

"If they had had Monte Stratton and Jackie Hayes this year they would be in front by ten games. They'd have breezed in, pulled up. Sure as yo' born.

"CAN MANAGE FOR ME"

"Tough those boys had accidents. Just beat your town out of a crack at Cincinnati in the World Series. What a series that would have been.

"Just think. Same club the Black Sox tossed a championship to and wouldn't this fine, smart, alert ball club like a crack at those Reds in an honest series and you know all of them have been honest except the one 21 years ago.

"I'd like to see that one," and there seemed to be the semblance of a smile on Marse Joe's face for the first time. "How Jimmy Dykes would fight and his boys would fight to win that series. But I guess the pale hose can't make it this year. Too bad. They deserve it.

"Just bad luck they had to lose Hayes and Stratton. Monte would have won 20 games or more. That would have been plenty. With Monte alone added to that fine pitching staff, they'd make it.

"You know," said Joe, a frown wrinkling his brow, "there is one man over on the Sox bench who deserves more than any one man's credit for the way the White Sox have played this year.

"He's done a great job, knows all the angles, smart, knows how to handle men and gets the best from them because they like him.

"He's a fighter, knows baseball backwards and can do a great job with any material given. Of course you know I mean Jimmy Dykes. He can manage for me any time."

FIVE WITH SENATORS

I allow as how Marse Joe knows whereof he speaks.

"We got off to a terrible start," Marse Joe went on reflectively. "Just as the White Sox did. Since Aug. 1 New York and Chicago have played the best ball in the American League, but we just didn't start soon enough.

"Wish we had started a little sooner and were battling it out for the pennant right now.

"But," he continued seriously, "we aren't out of this pennant race yet. After this series we are through with the leaders.

"We get five with Washington and they have been easiest for us this year . . . Remember this, no pennant is won until the last man is out and this one may not be won until the last game of the year."

COUNTERPOISE was being mentioned as a possible winner of the $25,000 Narragansett Special on Saturday following his smashing victory over Honey Cloud . . . . . Counterpoise took an early lead, was later forced back into second place by Honey Cloud, and then came on to win by a smashing stretch drive.

HONEY CLOUD

"Hosses" Ryan of Worcester, had insisted that I wager $2 on Counterpoise, and so the finish looked particularly good to me . . . With Honey Cloud closing a 4 to 5 favorite, Counterpoise returned $9.90 . . . After going down with Attention, a 3 to 5 shot, in the New England Futurity I decided to go back to my old betting system which is against giving any consideration to an odds on choice . . . In New England, a favorite seldom wins an important stake race which has caused this section of the country to be known as the graveyard of turf champions.

Challedon was the choice in the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap, and finished third to Eight Thirty with Hash second . . . Challedon will also be the betting choice in the Narragansett Special, and will have to overcome the jinx that follows betting choices as well as beat one of the classiest fields to leave the barrier in an important stake race this year.

Honey Cloud should run better on Saturday than he did against Counterpoise . . . Dave Wilson told me he thought Honey Cloud needed yesterday's race . . . The champion handicapper looks for Honey Cloud to show better lasting power in the one-mile and a three-sixteenth race on Saturday.

Howard Wells has decided against War Plumage, starting in the Narragansett Special, and has shipped her to Aqueduct where she will compete in the Beldame Handicap a week from Saturday . . . Bushwhacker, victor in the rich New England Futurity, has been shipped from Narragansett to New York, and will compete in the Belmont Futurity.

It now looks as if there will be ten starters in the Narragansett Special . . . They will be Challedon, Eight Thirty, Isolator, Hash, Viscounty, Burning Star, Honey Cloud, War Dog, Yale O' Nine and Counterpoise.

Who is your selection to win?

JOHN COONEY of the Bees, who has been thumping the agate for an average of more than .300 this season, will finally have a day in his honor at National League Park on Sunday. It was Col. Dave Egan of the Daily Record who decided that something should be done to give fitting recognition to Cooney in view of all of the fine things he has done for baseball and for the Bees.

At the age of 39, Cooney is showing younger players how to get base hits in the clutch, and the way to pull down fly balls that are labeled for extra bases.

Cooney is the No. 1 team ball player of the National League. He has always been willing to do whatever was for the best interest of his team.

Cooney has proved a fine balance for the numerous Bees' rookies who have been playing dazzling ball during recent weeks. During the clubhouse and hotel conferences, Cooney has gladly given of his years of experience so that the younger players would know how to improve their game.

One will have to excuse John for stepping out afternoons and establishing a batting pace that most of the younger players are unable to maintain.

Like Lefty Grove, Ted Lyons and a few other veterans, Cooney keeps rolling on like Tennyson's brook. Give John a big hand on Sunday, and make him feel you appreciate all he has done for Boston baseball.

BOBBY AHEARN writes from Chicago that Jack McLean, star halfback of Cleo O'Donnell's St. Anselm's team at Manchester, N. H., for the past two seasons, has won a regular berth with the Chicago Bears . . . Although McLean is short in stature, he makes up for his lack of size in lightning speed . . . Coach George Halas of the Bears says McLean should succeed in professional football like Bill Osmanski and George MacLeod, former Holy Cross and Dartmouth stars.

Francis Albertanti, who used to be a publicity man for Tex Rickard and who for a time was employed in that capacity at the Boston Garden, will once more direct the ballyhoo department at the Bay Meadows race track at San Mateo, Cal. . . . Now that Rocky Palledino has scored such a big success with his colt Little Beans, Santa Anita and the other top race tracks are seeking the Palledino color bearers for their winter meetings.

BOWDOIN OPENS AGAINST TUFTS

in the mock-austerity that such fathers pretend toward their miniature replicas. Bob was late, and Dad explained that son had just zoomed down from the skies on the student aviation field — adding to his "air-hours."

Odd thing! Young Marchildon, a sharp-faced, keen kid and the only sophomore likely to "break in," is roommate with his rival, Henry Bonsagni, a lath-like lad who holds two football letters and is also a flying student. They are both after the same left halfback job.

Then comes Capt. Andy Haldane, a Joe-Cronin-jawed youth who is counted the squad's most powerful blocker, kicker, passer and runner (he received the "Wooden Spoon" typifying "most popular" at the last Ivy prom) at right half. And Bob Bell (Everett), a 158-pounder (he weighed 175 in high school and never got it back after a case of pneumonia) who will call the plays from the fullback position.

SHELLBACKS GONE

The blocking back (quarter) is an even split between three lads—Lindo Ferrini (Lynn) who was second fullback in 1939; Haven Fifield (nephew of Harvey Gibson, N. Y. World's Fair mgr., and who worked on an Appalachian trail crew last summer) and Joel Williams (Wollaston; good pass defender).

That's the varsity sketch according to experience and personality—not an over abundance of bone and gristle (they average 183 pounds and 19.7 years) but they deserve "A-for-spirit" plus the fact that they are 100 per cent sold on their big, husky-voiced, slightly deaf, quick-to-grin tutor. (If Adam likes you, the lessons are free.)

Walsh's voice, in his coaching, sometimes is hushed to a lyric caress and sometimes rises to occasional exasperated daddy yips, like a fond parent dealing with offspring who didn't drink their milk. Indeed the day of the screaming, ranting coach is gone, and I will challenge you to name one who now cusses his players through a megaphone or spills fascinating gems of profanity which survive as shower bath epigrams wherever old varsity alumni gather for a beer and biscuit.

Many of the old pernicious features of the game still live (the over-accent and the engendered jealousies) but the old shellbacks like Percy Haughton, Major Cavanaugh, Bob Folwell and Foster Sanford, who always kept sulphur and potash on the tips of their tongues, have passed into the limbo of outmoded things.

THE TECHNICIAN

Walsh is a technician (he jotted his basic formations and favorite plays on a blackboard, then said, "Dont print this stuff. We play Tufts the first game, and I don't want t'tip 'em off") who has never done anything but coach football from the moment he graduated from Notre Dame in 1925. He had a four year contract at Santa Clara waiting for him; then five years at Yale, one at Harvard and five at Bowdoin. His old, immortal company of the "Four-Horsemen and Seven Mules" (he was captain and center) have dispersed. The two guards are dead. Noble Kizer (Purdue) died last June, too. Stuhldreher coaches Wisconsin, Layden is at Notre Dame, Crowley at Fordham, Miller practices law in Cleveland. Huntzinger has disappeared. Collins (lately at North Carolina) is suffering from tuberculosis; Bach is coaching "somewhere," and Rip Miller is the Navy line coach.

THEY REALLY WORK

There are about seventeen subcenters, a veritable subway jam with a perky midget (156) named Paul Hazelton a whisker ahead of Herb Patterson of Brookline. The best of the backs are Bill "Jitterbug" Beckler (Winthrop), Eddie Martin (Milton), Jimmy Dolan (a sophomore and "best baseball player in college"), Eddie Combs and Harry Toomey (Swampscott; equalled the college record for the "300" as a freshman).

Oddly for a college which stands as the social-aristocrat among its small New England fellows, a large percentage of Bowdoin players are working boys, who shake people's furnaces, rake up Mrs. Winthrop Ambrose Tillinghast's autumn leaves, stagger under kitchen trays, mind the neighbor's children.

No kid gets an athletic scholarship (Positively!) but any needy student (athlete or otherwise) is eligible for the large number of endowed scholarships (from $60 to $400) if he attains specified marks (from "C" upwards).

It's a cozy, tradition-soaked institution, whose campus is a hodge-podge of unrelated architecture, with barrack-like brick dorms ranged beside pretty examples of the building arts; or an occasional clammy-granite building next to a colonial country club edifice, and tumbled autumn leaves, like arboreal dandruff scattered pleasantly over the lawns and pebbled walks.

It suggests an old, blue-stocking, early New England patrician in tailored frock coat and baggy, unpressed pants; a black Ascot tie and an embroidered waistcoat; a fiddler's haircut and a monocle in his eye—dignity and humor intermixed.

A CHORUS OF CHAMPIONS—Jubilant after their 4 to 3 win in 13 innings over the Phillies to cinch the National League pennant, these Cincinnati Reds howl with delight in their dressing room. Road Secretary Gabe Paul, in business suit, and Pitcher Joe Beggs are lifting Manager Bill McKechnie to their shoulders for the victory picture. Others in the group are Hank Gowdy, ex-Braves hero and Bees coach; in (rear center), Lew Riggs, Jim Turner, Bucky Walters, Ival Goodman, Bill Baker.

Reds Defer Victory Dance Till Derringer Wins 20th

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19 (AP)—The champions of the National League—the Cincinnati Reds—don't care what team wins the American League pennant, but General Manager Warren Giles hopes it's Detroit.

Giles watched his club clinch their second straight flag by coming from behind to beat the Phillies, 4 to 3, in 13 innings as Brooklyn lost to St. Louis.

"We'd probably draw more in dollars and cents if we played Cleveland," Giles said. "But on the other hand we might not. There might be 80,000 in the Cleveland Stadium one day and then drop off. Then that dissension sort of takes the bang out of it.

"In spite of what a lot of people might think, ball clubs consider more things than money.

The Reds whooped it up in their dressing room after Southpaw Johnny Van De Meer scored the winning run in the 13th, but the big celebration was reserved for tonight. The boys want Paul Derringer to win his 20th game against the Phils today.

"We'll celebrate tonight," explained Manager Deacon Bill McKechnie. "We have a day off tomorrow. Today we play ball. The boys deserve a celebration."

McKechnie had heaps of praise for Jimmy Wilson, 40-year-old coach who returned to active duty behind the bat after Ernie Lombardi was hurt.

"I don't believe anyone realizes what Jimmy has meant to this team," the Deacon said. "When we were in that Brooklyn series and every game was a money game it was Jimmy who pulled us through.

"It was Jimmy who caught the rest of the game when Lombardi sprained his ankle and it was Jimmy who caught the next two wins over the Dodgers. It was Jimmy who really put us over the top."

Four Sophs to Start for N. U.

Four sophomores will be in Northeastern's lineup for its opening game with Rhode Island State at Kingston on Saturday, Coach Jimmie Dunn announced today. The number is surprisingly small in view of the fact that second-year men are expected to bear most of the Huskie burden this fall.

Ed Macfarlane of Winthrop, the speed boy of the squad, will start at wingback and is the only second-year man to get into the starting backfield. Jim Reilly of Brighton will be at end, Dick Grey of Quincy at center and Len Erickson of Waltham at guard. Ed Barry of Wellesley will be at tailback, with Bonnie Tubbs of Hartford, Ct., at fullback, Phil Sheridan of Malden at blocking back. Sheridan or Tubbs will call the signals.
